WORKERS SHOT DOWN BY GPU IN RIOT AT MOSCOW

Auto Plant Set Afire; 3,000 Arrested.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, June 5.—The Moscow fire department was called out to cooperate with the GPU [soviet secret police] in quelling a riot at the Josef Stalin automobile works, it was disclosed here today. Workers at the auto plant erected barricades and fought with the special troops after demolishing machines and setting fire to the factory.

Using machine guns and hand grenades, the GPU smashed the workers' resistance. The number of dead and injured was kept a secret by Moscow authorities. More than 3,000 persons were arrested.

Incomplete information obtained through foreign representations revealed that a number of serious conflicts occurred between the workers and the GPU in various Moscow industrial plants last Thursday and Saturday.

Invade Workers' Districts.

No riots were officially reported on Friday, the soviet day of rest. Nevertheless, strong patrols of the GPU invaded workers' districts seeking the source of proclamations directed against Dictator Stalin. The leaflets have been widely distributed in the soviet capital in recent weeks.

Though there were no reports of disorders on that day, information of another large fire reached here. It was started by workers in the Moscow railroad shops. They declared a strike and demanded the restoration of the rationing system under which workers received provisions at prices much lower than those charged in government stores. Thirty new railroad coaches were destroyed in the fire.

Strikes and riots, which have been suppressed with loss of life, were reported from other industrial centers where workers utilized election rallies to agitate against Stalin's régime.

Engineers Report Unrest.

Mass arrests, executions, and the sending of Russians into exile have been unable to halt agitation for the overthrow of the dictator. This was revealed by a group of foreign engineers who arrived here after being expelled by the Moscow government on suspicion of espionage.

They reported that dissatisfaction among Russian workers has reached the explosive point and that acts of sabotage are becoming more frequent. The GPU, they said, is unable to cope with the many underground anti-Stalin organizations.

"Although I have lived in Moscow since 1920, as head of a toothpaste factory, I never saw anti-government literature in such noticeable quantities before this year," said a Danish engineer.

Call for Stalin's Death.

"Since April, anti-Stalin groups flooded our factory with proclamations calling for a new revolution and the death of Stalin. Factory meetings were discontinued because of violent speeches by workers demanding cheaper food and better clothing.

"Disappearance of speakers failed to intimidate the workers. The hatred which the communist party cultivates against foreigners seems to have included Stalin, who is also called 'inorodetz'—foreigner—by Russians who say that he has brought their country to the stage of trials, mass executions and hunger. They declare that life under Nicolai Lenin was heaven in comparison with their existence today.

Large Death Toll Cited.

"Moscow under Stalin has become a city without old people. A person of 50 years of age is regarded the same as an octogenarian is viewed abroad. Largely because of poor food, a majority of the workers die between the ages of 30 and 45. Tuberculosis and stomach complaints account for the death of most of them.

"Youths are supporters of Stalin but at the age of 25 many become opponents of the bolshevik régime. The situation has become so serious that communist control is tottering and almost weekly rumors of plots to assassinate Stalin reveal how popular this subject has become among the population."

The engineer said that the morale of the Red army has been shattered by the continual arrests of military leaders. Drunkenness among all ranks, he said, has become evident and discipline is low.

FLY FROM SPAIN, RAID TWO TOWNS AND RAIL LINE

Penetrate 50 Miles Inside Border.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 5.—A new bomb attack on French territory by what were believed to be German planes today brought plans for a vigorous protest to one or the other of the governments locked in a death struggle in Spain.

Nine planes, which the government spoke of as of "unknown nationality," but which were presumed to be from Generalissimo Francisco Franco's Spanish rebel "Condor Legion," penetrated fifty miles into France, then turned back and dropped bombs near Orlu and Orgeix, which are about fifteen miles inside France's Pyrenees frontier.

Seek Safety in Cellars.

Most bombs fell in open fields—no one was killed or wounded and trafic on the railroad was not halted—but residents of Orlu and Orgeix were panic stricken and ran to cellars and other places seeking safety.

Visibility was rather poor because of ground mists, but the attack was made in broad daylight [about 8:30 a. m.] and the raiding planes flew low—from 2,000 to 3,000 feet.

Witnesses said the bombers came from the direction of Spain in "Vs" of three planes each following the course of the Ariege river and the railroad which parallels it. They flew as far inland as Tarascon-sur-Ariege, which is only ten miles south of Foix, capital of the Ariege department, before turning back to Orlu and Orgeix. For no less than two hours the flyers bombed the railroad leading into Spain, then attacked Puigcerda, Spain. The railroad leading to the border at Puigcerda is one of the two main rail routes for sending supplies into government Spain.

Order Planes to Border.

The fact that the planes followed the railway and penetrated so deeply into France opened the possibility that the raid might have been deliberate instead of what one French official called "a mistake due to bad flying judgment." He added, ". . . a mistake of the sort that must not happen again."

Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet ordered an immediate investigation. A foreign office spokesman said that as soon as it was determined which side of the Spanish civil war employed the squadron, a vigorous protest would be made.

Premier Edouard Daladier ordered French aviators to begin a systematic patrol of the French border and bring down any foreign planes crossing the Spanish frontier into France.

The French public is considerably worked up over this new outrage coming after the May 26 raid on Cerbere, French border town, in which three Frenchmen were wounded and three houses destroyed, and after the ruthless massacre of civilians at Granollers and Barcelona in Spain.

Doubt Franco Has Control.

The conclusion drawn here is that Germany and Italy have resolved to bring the Spanish loyalists to their knees by the greatest campaign of aerial frightfulness the world has yet seen.

Significantly, it is claimed here in right wing circles that indignation over these brutal methods of warfare is hardly less great in rebel Spain than abroad.

The newspaper Intransiegeant declares on authority of a high Spanish source close to Franco that the rebel general has protested to Rome and Berlin against the new campaign of terror which is making a shambles of the Mediterranean coast and has even issued categorical orders to his German and Italian flyers to refrain from such acts.

BUSY POURING OIL

SUMMERDALE CRIME FIGHTERS SPEND THE DAY SHADOW BOXING

Crime in Chicago diminished to Lilliputian proportions in the Summerdale district yesterday, on the authority of Policemen Thomas Dunderdale and Anthony Robinson.

They were sent first to 1435 Elmdale avenue, where larceny was reported. On arrival they were told by an irate housewife that a sneak thief had taken two pairs of the baby's rompers—and would the police force see that they came back?

Next the investigators received a radio call about counterfeiters at work at 1050 Argyle street. There, in a restaurant they found Robert De Loach, the clerk-manager-chef, in high wrath.

"A fellow just came in and asked change for a quarter," said De Loach. "I gave him three nickels and a dime—and look what I got."

He displayed a round lead slug.

"All we need now," said Dunderdale, "is a report that an early model 1937 straw hat has been stolen."

TO ARMS, MEN! HORSE THIEVES ARE BUSY AGAIN

Half a dozen detectives in the Grand Crossing police station leaped to their feet last night, ready for duty, when Ermas Mansco of 2666 Grand avenue dashed in and shouted:

"Horse thieves got my horses!"

After he quieted down he said:

"Whitey and Browney are the two best ones I ever owned, and I have been in the show business for twenty years. I never saw any others that went so well. But the thieves just carried them away."

Perhaps, the desk sergeant suggested, Browney and Whitey had merely wandered off and were nibbling grass in some vacant lot.

"You've got me wrong," said Mansco. They're wooden horses from the carrousel—merry-go-round to you—and I think some boys took them to play with. If you find them the carnival is at 76th and Exchange."

Pastor Posts Safe Driving Plea on His Bulletin Board

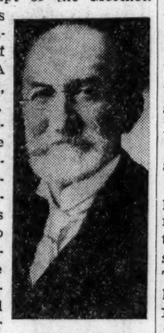
Lure of WPA Foils Mormon Self-Aid Aims

BY HOWARD WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Salt Lake City, Utah, June 5.—[Special.]—The attempt of the Mormon church to take its unemployed members off relief rolls and WPA lists has failed, Heber J. Grant, 81 years old, president of the church, said today in an interview. This failure, he said, has not been due to the church's inability to provide for its less fortunate brothers and sisters, but rather to the fact that the luxury of getting something for little or nothing from government funds has proved too seductive a temptation for a large number of the less frugal members.



Heber J. Grant.

Destroys Self-Reliance.

Thus, the very thing that the church feared and sought to forestall, he said, has come to pass. The initiative and spirit of self-reliance of many of the descendants of Brigham Young's band of hardy pioneers has been undermined by the ease with which they get government handouts.

"Because it has proved impossible to persuade many of the members to resist the temptation to lean on the government," President Grant said, "we now have to be content with urging those who go to work on WPA jobs to try to give an honest day's work for their money.

"I have watched men at work on these government jobs. I have counted slowly to four between their shovelfuls. In some cases I have counted to as high as forty between shovelfuls—and they were mighty skimpy shovelfuls at that."

Recalls Pioneer Spirit.

These observations on the spirit of laziness and indigence fostered by government make-work projects led the aged patriarch to recall the different spirit in which the early Mormon pioneers labored against greater odds to meet the problems of a none too favorable environment.

LIGHTNING DAMAGES $150,000 MEMORIAL TO MAINE IN HAVANA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, June 5.—Two bolts of lightning today struck the Maine memorial monument in Maine park, causing extensive damage to the $150,000 marble and bronze edifice. One of the two marble shafts was cracked along its entire length and large slabs from it fell to the ground. A large hole was bored through the bronze figure representing Cuba at the base of the shafts which support an American eagle. One of the two large flower vases which stand at either side of the monument was smashed to bits.

The monument was erected through public subscription in 1921 as a memorial to the American sailors killed in the sinking of the United States battleship Maine in Havana harbor in 1898. Today's rainstorm was the longest and heaviest here since the summer of 1935.

SLOWING WORLD PUTS MOON OFF ITS USUAL TRACK

LONDON, June 5.—(AP)—The moon, Astronomer Harold Spencer Jones said today, has jumped its track.

"And it's all the earth's fault," the astronomer told a meeting of the royal observatory of Greenwich. "It took us years to pin this on the earth. The apparent deviation now is greater than at any time since records have been kept."

The moon's course is plotted by the earth's time and the earth's time is reckoned by its rotation, Jones explained. Somewhere an unknown gigantic brake has suddenly been clamped on the spinning world, slowing it down, he said.

Dr. Martin Davidson, president of the British Astronomical association, estimated this slowing down process was going on at the rate of about a thousandth of a second every century. At present, he said, the moon is about six seconds of time off its beaten track.

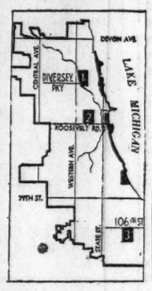
It's all very upsetting—to the astronomers.

Balbo Slated to Become Viceroy of Ethiopia Soon

ROME, June 5.—(AP)—Well informed sources today reported Marshal Italo Balbo, black-bearded governor of Libya, soon would be appointed viceroy of Ethiopia to succeed the duke of Aosta. The royal duke, who became viceroy Dec. 22, has been in ill health much of the time since reaching Ethiopia.

2,000 Families Leave Marks on U. S. Houses

It has been several months since the federal government's three low cost housing projects opened their doors to Chicagoans of modest incomes. In that time more than 2,000 families have settled down in three little cities and adjustment has taken place.



[1] Julia Lathrop houses, [2] Jane Addams house, [3] Trumbull park homes.

In this overnight influx and mingling of so many families—Chicago has never seen anything comparable to it—what has happened to the tenants? What is their attitude toward their new homes and their government landlord? How do Uncle Sam's agents feel toward their tenants? What has happened to the property itself?

Appear to Age Quickly.

The last question is easiest answered. A tour of the three projects indicates that a great deal has happened. The buildings appear to be aging faster than privately owned structures of corresponding type. A new apartment or flat building demands a premium in rent. Private landlords generally guard their new buildings from damage and ill use to keep them looking new.

And though the government keeps corps of janitors in uniform caps on duty at all three projects, Uncle Sam would seem to be a poorer guardian of property than the private landlords with whom he is in competition.

The projects are the Jane Addams houses, Roosevelt road and Racine avenue; the Julia Lathrop homes, 2000 Diversey parkway, and the Trumbull Park homes, 106th street and Bensley avenue, South Chicago.

Writing on the Walls.

In many hallways and vestibules of the three projects children have been permitted to write their names and draw pictures with pencil and crayon, and some of the names inscribed there, judging from the writing, are those of adults.

Mail boxes have been partially torn from the walls or knocked awry. Hallways and vestibules are cluttered with baby buggies, though alcoves are provided for them. New washing equipment in the basements has been dented and shows other signs of abuse.

Newly seeded grass plots have been trampled down. Guard wires around young trees have been torn down almost faster than grounds crews can restore them. These things have been done chiefly by children, who also have left traces of their presence in defaced woodwork throughout the projects.

These are obvious signs of a few

PARTY RADICALS HIT BY GILLETTE IN FINAL PLEA

Roosevelt Is Made Primary Issue.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., June 5.—[Special.]—The Democratic battle between Senator Guy M. Gillette and Representative Otha D. Wearin for the senatorship in tomorrow's primary election swung to its climax tonight.

Senator Gillette declared that the issue is whether senators are to be selected by the people of Iowa without interference from outsiders. Representative Wearin said that the state's indorsement of the Roosevelt administration is at stake.

Five Seeking Nomination.

In all, five aspirants are seeking the Democratic senatorial nomination. Iowa law requires that candidates obtain at least 35 per cent of the primary vote in order to win nomination. When the vote is divided among several candidates, and none receives 35 per cent, the task of choosing the nominee falls to a state party convention. Such a convention could nominate some one who did not run in the primaries if it chose to do so.

Gillette declared that his vote against the Roosevelt court packing bill had brought a pack of political wolves upon his candidacy.

He said that President Roosevelt, James A. Farley, and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace are neutral in the controversy.

Gillette Scores Meddlers.

Harry Hopkins, head of the WPA and a member of the so-called "kitchen cabinet" and other outsiders who have sought to meddle in the Iowa campaign were denounced by the senator.

"I have not been and will not be a rubber stamp member of congress," he said. "I will not be bound to support as a blindfolded legislator every piece of legislation presented to congress by the bureaus and departments of our government—legislation prepared by those bureaus for furthering their burocratic interest."

Gillette described the votes he cast in the senate for administration measures.

"I believe Iowa voters on the whole approve that record," he said. "I opposed the proposal last year to give the executive department authority to make additions to the membership of the Supreme court for the purpose of influencing the trend of decisions.

Tells Roosevelt His Stand.

"Immediately upon the introduction of this proposal, I visited the President and informed him that despite my feeling of most intense loyalty to him I could not vote to give the executive department such control over the judicial branch of the government.

"I considered such a proposal fraught with the utmost danger to minorities in our country, and feared that it might be used in future administrations to destroy the constitutional rights of groups of our people—religious, racial, and political.

"This is the crime which has brought upon my head the wrath of such men as Hopkins, Homer Martin of Michigan, Earl Browder, the communist leader, and many others outside the borders of our state. They have engaged in a campaign of accusation, distortion, and political trickery in an attempt to secure repudiation of me by the people of Iowa.

Describes Fight for Principles.

"I was fighting for Democratic principles long before Browder was big enough to lift a volume of Karl Marx.

"I was fighting for fundamental democracy in Iowa long years before such men as Hopkins and Martin had aligned themselves with our party, when it had reached a position of dominance and power.

"I resent with all the vehemence at my command the deliberate, cunningly conceived, and thoroughly dishonest campaign that has been conducted, in conjunction and with the approval of Mr. Wearin, by those outside the state who have attempted to intrude in our state affairs and who are speaking for themselves alone."

The Gillette camp here believes the senator will draw about 50 per cent of the vote tomorrow. The Democratic poll is expected to run between 140,000 and 200,000. Behind Gillette is most of the state machine, including the followers of Senator Clyde Herring and Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel. There are some 28,000 state employés.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today stepped into the battle with a telegraphic indorsement of Gillette.

"Are those you represent going to turn down a United States senator who complied with every request for labor legislation?" Green asked in a message to A. A. Couch, Iowa Federation president. "Such action would be the height of ingratitude."

Hopkins Backs Wearin.

Representative Wearin, recipient of kind words from Hopkins and James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, who sent a "my friend, Otha" wire, is backed by the federal machine.

In his final appeal, Wearin said that Iowa tomorrow will be the great proving ground of administration.

"We are optimistic about the election," Wearin said tonight, "and we feel confident that President Roosevelt and all he stands for will come out on top. The issue is clear."

The three others seeking the Democratic nomination are Joseph J. Meyers, W. G. Byerhoff, and Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson. The Republican senatorial contest is between former Senator L. J. Dickinson and Representative Lloyd Thurston.

M'NARY ASSAILS RELIEF FUND USE FOR VOTE BAITING

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Senator McNary of Oregon indicated today that Republicans would make the senate's vote against restricting political activity by relief employés a major issue in this year's congressional election campaigns.

The Republican leader declared the Democratic majority in the senate made a "major mistake" when it voted, under leadership of administration lieutenants, against writing such restrictions into the $3,723,000,000 lending-spending bill.

In an interview, McNary added: "The implication is clear that a portion of these relief funds will be used for political purposes, thereby depriving those in need of relief from a free exercise of their opinions."

Dies a Day After Parole from U. S. Penitentiary

William Kennedy, 50 years old, who was paroled Saturday from the federal penitentiary in Leavenworth, Kas., died last night in his room in the Grace hotel, 75 West Jackson boulevard, apparently from a heart attack. Papers found in his clothing showed that he entered prison on March 8, 1936, told of his release, and indicated he was on his way to New York City.

Outsiders Assailed in Iowa Primary

Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa has named these three men among those who have "engaged in a campaign of accusation, distortion, and political trickery" to prevent his renomination because of his opposition to court packing bill. Left to right: Earl Browder, communist party leader; Harry Hopkins, head of WPA, and Homer Martin, C. I. O. leader. They are supporting Otha D. Wearin.

Despondent because unemployment forced him to postpone his wedding to Mrs. Mildred Doyle, 25 years old, Henry Brudnicki, 24, of 1501 14th street, shot and killed himself yesterday while they were visiting in the home of her father at 10449 South Hamlin avenue.

R. R. REYNOLDS IS VICTOR IN N. C. SENATORIAL RACE

Raleigh, N. C., June 5.—(AP)—Returns from 1,600 of 1,862 precincts in yesterday's Democratic primary for the United States senate gave Senator Robert R. Reynolds 272,051 votes and his opponent, Representative Frank W. Hancock Jr. of the 5th district, 180,011. Hancock conceded Reynolds' nomination.

The Democratic nomination for the senate has been tantamount to election in this state for nearly forty years. Charles A. Jonas of Lincolnton was nominated by the Republicans.

ROOSEVELT EYES IOWA PRIMARY AS TEST OF PURGE

Vote Expected to Decide Fate of Party Rebels.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Grave problems of the deepened depression and a political situation fraught with momentous possibilities claimed the attention of President Roosevelt as he returned to the White House tonight from a weekend yachting cruise in Chesapeake bay.

Tomorrow morning he will receive the Democratic leaders from Capitol hill for a conference to map the strategy for getting an agreement on pending measures that will enable congress to wind up its work and go home this week.

Not much difficulty is anticipated in reconciling the house and senate versions of the 3¾ billion dollar spending-lending bill as part of the President's 5 billion dollar relief and pump priming program, designed to dissipate the depression.

Wage-Hour Bill Main Problem.

The most exacting question is presented by the minimum wage and maximum hour bill on which the conference committee of the two houses is deadlocked, with the house defending its proposals to impose on all industries affecting interstate commerce a minimum wage beginning at 25 cents an hour and a maximum work week beginning at 44 hours, while the senate insists on regional differentials preserving the industrial advantage of the south arising from lower wages than prevail in the north.

The threat of southern senators to filibuster the wage-hour bill unless such differentials are provided is the fly in the ointment for the leaders who are striving to adjourn congress this week.

Iowa Primary Tests Technique.

The most important event for the President tomorrow, however, will be the Iowa primary. Its outcome will furnish the first test of the effectiveness of the new technique adopted by Mr. Roosevelt to purge his party of Democratic senators and representatives who have been somewhat less than 100 per cent responsive to his will. Mr. Roosevelt's technique is to reiterate that he is taking no sides in a Democratic primary while permitting the "elimination committee," headed by Thomas G. [Tommy the Cork] Corcoran, to promote the campaign of an opponent of the proscribed candidate for reëlection and also permitting Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins to mobilize the voters on the relief rolls for the administration favorite.

These devices were resorted to in the Iowa primary to promote the candidacy of Congressman Otha D. Wearin against Senator Guy M. Gillettle, who has supported the President about as much as Wearin with the exception of the project to pack the Supreme court.

Gillette Put on Blacklist.

Senator Gillette fought Mr. Roosevelt on that issue and promptly went on the Roosevelt blacklist.

If Wearin wins the primary in Iowa tomorrow the result will be acclaimed, with little ground for dispute, a vote of confidence in Mr. Roosevelt and his program, a rebuke for a senator who helped to defeat the court packing bill, and a demonstration of the public toleration and the effectiveness of the use of the billions of dollars of relief funds for political purposes. And the President will have taken a big step forward in his undertaking to elect a new congress that will support him to a greater degree than the one now coming to an end.

Accident Halts Test Flight of 72 Passenger Clipper

Seattle, Wash., June 5.—(AP)—Puncture of the right hydro-stabilizer or seawing interrupted testing of the seventy-two passenger Boeing Atlantic Clipper here this afternoon. Members of the giant plane's crew said the craft struck a log while taxiing in Puget Sound. Boeing officials said repairs might take only a few hours if the plate could be replaced while the plane was in the water.

CHICAGO DEATH RATE DROPS TO ALL-TIME LOW

Syphilis Fight Credited as Health Factor.

Figures issued yesterday by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, showed that Chicago's death rate in the first three months of 1938 was the lowest in history for any similar period. The downstate sections of Illinois and the state as a whole also had lower death rates.

During the period there were 9,235 deaths in the city. This is at the annual rate of 10.2 per 1,000 population. In the first three months of 1937 the city's rate was 11.4. The downstate rate this year was 12.4 and in 1937 was 13.6. The 1938 rate for the whole state was 11.4, compared to 12.6 in 1937.

Births Exceed Deaths.

Births in Illinois exceeded deaths, 27,845 to 22,429. Dr. Bundesen pointed out that there had been sharp reduction in mortality from diphtheria, influenza, tuberculosis, cancer, and heart disease this year. Two of the serious diseases, smallpox and typhoid fever, have almost disappeared. There were no smallpox deaths in the state in three months and only six from typhoid.

"Chicago's record makes the city one of the healthiest in the country," said Dr. Bundesen. "The fight on syphilis, often a hidden cause of other ailments, is showing results in the statistics. Blood tests and early treatment of syphilis have blocked development of related diseases in thousands of cases."

Measles Show Increase.

Measles was one of the few diseases that showed an increase this year over last. In Chicago there were 28 deaths from this cause, while downstate reported 110. Last year there was only one death from measles in the state.

A comparative table, showing the number of deaths per 100,000 [1938 and 1937] for Chicago and downstate in three months follows:

	——1938——		——1937——
Disease—	Chicago.	Downstate.	Chicago.	Downstate.
Measles	3.1	10.3	.1	.9
Scarlet fever	2.6	3.7	3.1	4.1
Whoop'g cough	.1	.9	1.4	3.5
Diphtheria	1.4	1.7	2.6	2.4
Influenza	3.8	15.9	15.9	79.1
Tuberculosis	49.9	41.9	56.3	48.4
Respira'y system	44.2	39.1	60.5	45.3
Malaria	.8	.1	.3	.5
Cancer	122.0	130.4	135.7	118.0
Diabetes	32.6	28.9	32.1	30.9
Disease, nervous system	71.2	119.8	70.8	128.1
Cerebral hemorrhage	53.5	98.2	51.2	102.4
Disease circulatory system	342.1	375.8	365.2	378.0
Heart disease	333.1	341.5	355.3	347.2

All accidents	69.4	55.1	83.2	65.7
Auto accidents	17.0	26.9	21.2	35.1

The rates are computed on the basis of 3,490,700 population in Chicago and 7,845,000 in all of Illinois in 1937, and on the basis of 3,607,000 in Chicago and 7,878,000 in the state this year.

REPUBLICANS IN 8 COUNTIES PLAN R. J. LYONS DAY

Celebration Will Be Held June 18 at Fox Lake.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Republicans in the eight populous counties in the northeastern corner of Illinois will unite in celebrating Richard J. Lyons day at the Fox Lake Golf and Country club on June 18.

After a conference yesterday in the office of State Chairman A. K. Stiles, it was announced that the Republican chairmen of those counties had agreed to make the affair honoring their party's nominee for United States senator something bigger than the usual political picnic or outing. They agreed to make it an occasion suitable to mark the opening of Lyons' downstate summer campaign which he will begin soon after the celebration if his legislative duties do not keep him too closely confined to Springfield.

Motorcades Are Planned.

George F. Barrett, secretary and treasurer of the Lyons day committee, said that each of the counties will send a motorcade of scores of cars so that attendance will be truly representative of the active Republicanism of northeastern Illinois.

The eight counties and their chairmen are: Boone, Edwin A. Loop of Belvidere; Cook, Edward F. Moore of Chicago; Du Page, Paul A. Isherwood of West Chicago; Kane, Charles A. O'Connor of Aurora; Lake, William M. Marks of Lake Villa; McHenry, C. Frank Daly of Woodstock; Will, A. F. Schupp of Joliet, and Winnebago, Paul C. Rosenquist of Rockford.

Party Leaders to Serve.

According to the announcement, George F. Harding, national committeeman, Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman; State Chairman Stiles, and Charles A. O'Connor, chairman of the Republican County Chairmen's association of Illinois, will serve jointly as chairmen for Lyons day. Others on the committee are Robert C. Rohn, secretary of the Cook county committee, and Frank M. Kalteux, committeeman for the 38th ward, Chicago. All the nominees on the state ticket are expected to take part.

"There will be golf, softball games and horse shoe pitching for all comers," said Secretary Barrett, "and 4,000 pounds of beef will be barbecued under the direction of experts from southern Illinois. Reduced railroad fares are offered by the Milwaukee railroad. We expect several thousand to attend."

Nominee Lyons was one of the principal speakers yesterday afternoon at the celebration of Grunlovs dag, the Danish constitution day, at Harms' park.

"In trying times such as the world and the United States are experiencing now," he said to an audience of several thousand, "I thank the Almighty Father that there is a people who can give us the solid, conservative leadership that characterizes the Danes. They are not the kind to seek wild panaceas to settle world problems. Instead, they give independent thought and earnest, industrious effort to achieve substantial and sound improvement in economic conditions."

7 COMMISSIONS URGED TO STUDY ECONOMIC WOES

Must Cure 'Deadly Sores,' Barton Declares.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Representative Bruce Barton [R., N. Y.], will introduce in the house tomorrow seven concurrent resolutions providing for joint congressional commissions to study the "seven deadly sores" of the present economic situation, and report to the next congress a definite program for dealing with each of them. The "seven deadly sores" are:

1. The farm problem.
2. Unemployment and relief problem.
3. The problem of social security.
4. The problem of a tax program designed to stimulate instead of to strangle industry.
5. Reciprocal trade policy.
6. Government competition with private industry—particularly in the field of public utilities.
7. The railroad problem.

Each special joint congressional commission would be composed of six persons: Two senators appointed by the vice president; two representatives appointed by the speaker of the house; two persons not connected with the government, one of whom would be appointed by the vice president and the other by the speaker of the house.

Reports Due Next January.

The commissions would be empowered to investigate the activities of the federal government in the various fields covered by the seven problems and would present to congress by Jan. 3, 1939, a report of their findings together with their recommendations for remedial legislation.

The commissions, or any authorized subcommittees thereof, would be authorized to sit at such times and in such places in the United States as they might deem necessary during the interim until the next session. Each commission would be specifically authorized to require the attendance of witnesses by subpoena, the production of books, papers, and documents; and to employ counsel, experts, clerical and other assistants; also to employ stenographers.

The resolutions provide that the sum of $50,000 shall be made available for the expenses of each joint commission.

"All we are doing now is sprinkling legislative talcum powder on the running sore of unemployment," said Congressman Barton. "We have passed a train load of laws, many of which ought to be repealed. We are not getting anywhere, and the people want congress to become again an independent body and do something.

Opposes Advance Publicity.

"But congress cannot become independent by the mere process of negation. It cannot perform its functions by merely refusing to enact measures written in the back rooms of the white house. Unless congress itself has a program, it will continue to have to swallow the program prepared for it by the Corcorans and the Cohens.

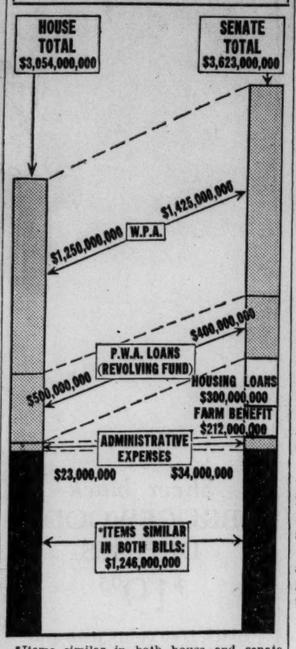
"Congress must act. It must draw into its councils the best brains of labor, industry, agriculture and finance, and evolve solutions for our major problems through coöperation, confidence and common sense. Such solutions cannot be achieved in the hurly-burly rush of a legislative session. They demand time and study. Hence my resolutions.

"I hope these joint commissions will never get into the headlines until the next congress assembles and the reports are ready.

"I have been in congress for six months," Representative Barton said further. "I am impressed by the patriotic devotion of the great majority of the members. But we are —all of us—bewildered and groping. The problems are too vast to be dealt with by helter-skelter legislation. They can never be solved by government or industry or labor acting alone.

"We need the heart, mind, and energy of the whole nation called into conference. We must recreate the spirit of unselfish devotion which inspired our people in the dark days of the world war. Such a spirit will conquer any problem; but it can function only in an atmosphere of unity and mutual tolerance. Hate, class feeling, sectional differences must all be buried.

Relief Bills Differ



*Items similar in both house and senate bills are: PWA, $965,000,000; farm rehabilitation, $175,000,000; NYA, $75,000,000; federal public buildings, $25,000,000: Porto Rico reconstruction administration, $6,000,000.

Comparison of the various items in the relief bill passed by the house with the bill passed by the senate. The bills must be adjusted by a joint conference committee.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washingon, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Senate and house conferees will meet Tuesday to begin composition of differences between their respective versions of the 3 billion dollar pump priming bill. Members of the senate appropriations committee said they believed the house would accede to most of the changes the senate wrote into the measure and that the bill would be completed by the end of the week.

One of the principal additions to the bill by the senate was to increase existing authorization for slum clearance by 300 million dollars. Another senate item was 212 millions more for farm benefits.

The spending and lending program of the administration already is under way and 30,000 WPA jobs are being added weekly. About 2,800,000 persons will receive relief employment for seven months, although a peak of more than 3 million workers is anticipated next winter.

NEWARK TO DENY THOMAS PERMIT FOR A 2D SPEECH

Newark, N. J., June 5.—(AP)—City Commissioner Joseph Byrne Jr. declared today Norman Thomas, Socialist leader who was bombarded with eggs and other missils in a speech attempt here, would not be granted a permit to try outdoor speechmaking in Newark again.

Thomas, driven from Military park last night by about 100 men and a blaring brass band after his platform was smashed from under him, had demanded in a telegram to Mayor Meyer C. Ellenstein that he be "guaranteed protection" for another meeting at the park.

Byrne, director of the department of parks and public property, said "in view of what took place last night I feel that it would be better for the peace of the community that Thomas attempt no more speeches in Newark."

BUSINESS FIGHTS TAX FOR RELIEF AS LAST STRAW

Leaders Point to Burden Already Carried.

The proposed state law to allow cities and villages throughout Illinois to license all businesses and many personal services to raise new millions for public relief purposes would create unfair burdens on industry and would seriously retard recovery, Chicago business leaders declared yesterday.

James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and Oscar G. Mayer, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, were among those who assailed the plan. Any additional taxation on business, they held, would be paralyzing to efforts to emerge from the depression.

Provides Licenses for Revenue.

Under terms of a bill which is to be introduced in the general assembly this week, municipalities would be given the power to license for revenue. Heretofore municipal license laws have been regulatory measures only.

Mayor Kelly, who worked out the plan with Gov. Horner as the only alternative to forcing additional tax burdens on property owners, has estimated that increased annual revenue for relief purposes in Chicago would amount to $3,000,000. The mayor also is considering a proposal to divert $2,500,000 annually from the city's share of the motor fuel tax fund for relief.

Among the classifications of businesses the bill would affect are manufacturers, contractors, retailers [including department stores], wholesalers, graphic arts [including newspaper publishing plants as well as job printers and sign painters] and business service.

Points to Present Burdens.

"The manufacturers have been and will continue to carry their fair share of the unemployment relief burden," Donnelly said. "There are several practical aspects of this problem, however, that it is well for all concerned to keep in mind when considering new forms of taxation for this purpose.

"First—The great majority of manufacturers and other business firms are now almost paralyzed by the alarming tax burdens they are now carrying.

"Second—Any increase in this load will necessarily harass and handicap industry further, destroy opportunities for employment, and thus increase the army of the unemployed. If the relief problem is to be corrected or solved it will be through reëmployment by private business.

Holds Proposal Unfair.

"Third—Any additional revenue that may be necessary for relief should be raised by a form of tax which will thoroughly and equitably distribute the burden over all taxpayers. It would be clearly unfair and unreasonable to single out manufacturers and business firms and impose upon them the principal burden of any new license or tax program.

"Fourth—The power to tax is the power to destroy. This power should be left with the state legislature. Even assuming that present municipal administrations would exercise such power equitably and fairly, manufacturing and business firms must look upon this question from the standpoint of its long term implications.

"Fifth—Programs which contemplate new taxes on business and industry should be approached with particular care by larger municipalities at this time when small communities are engaged in active campaigns to attract industries from larger cities."

Warns of Widening Powers.

Mayer warned of the danger of broadening taxing powers.

"New taxation legislation has a tendency to stay on the books for a long time," he said. "Additional taxation is naturally bad for business."

He urged that legislators consider other plans for raising relief funds instead of viewing the pending bill as a last resort.

16,000 Blooms for Annual Open House.

BY BETTY BROWNING.

Sixteen thousand peonies! Fluffy white puffs, crimson water lilies, deep rose clusters shading to palest pink, golden hearted balls a foot in diameter.

That's what the R. A. Napiers' 3,000 guests found yesterday when they paid their annual visit to Blue Island's famous peony garden. Sixteen years ago it was just the back yard where the children played, but a business man's fancy has developed it into what is now perhaps the finest collection of peonies in the country.

275 Varieties Arrayed.

Frost mint juleps sped the visitors under a wisteria trellis to the peonies, massed in what used to be the tennis court and banked along three sides of the garden. The entire garden, including the house in which Mrs. Napier was born and has lived all her life, is no larger than an acre.

Here are arrayed 275 varieties, small spiky blooms from Japan, original home of the peony, enormous, luscious blooms developed by English and American horticulturists. There is the alluring Mrs. A. M. Brand, cloaked in cellophane to protect her snowy petals from grimy raindrops. The Sarah Napier, blush red with a shell pink core, was named for Mrs. Napier by a Missouri grower when she called it the prettiest she had ever seen.

She Likes Tomatoes, Too.

"Of course, it is flattering to have a peony named for one," commented Mrs. Napier, smiling, "but I do love ripe tomatoes just off the vine. And how do you suppose we could ever find place for a tomato plant?"

Congestion has been Mr. Napier's chief problem since he first started visiting peony shows and began forming his own collection. Every year he must eliminate several hundred plants to find room for new and choice species. Several Mr. Napier has originated himself, by growing plants from the seed. This takes four or five years, and results are uncertain because the bees have mixed the pollen, but two blooms have turned out particularly well, and have been named for his little granddaughters.

Open House an Occasion.

Several years ago the Napiers began holding open house on the Sunday at the height of the peony season, and the fame of the occasion has spread until yesterday visitors arrived from as far away as Cincinnati.

Peony time is prolonged by the Napiers a month to six weeks, for Mr. Napier has built a refrigerator room in the basement and keeps 2,000 buds there a month to six weeks, bringing them out a few bunches at a time. Many are sent by mail to friends who cannot come to see the garden in bloom. Mr. Napier won a gold medal at A Century of Progress with his peonies.

TWO IN AUTO ROBBED OF $70.

Miss Dorothy Erickson, 21 years old, was sitting in an automobile in front of her home at 5750 Midway park early yesterday with Alder Ross, 30, of 5937 Walton street. Two bandits sprang into the rear seat and took $50 from Ross and $20 from Miss Erickson.

Press Kidnap Search

(Story in adjoining column.)

Government agents seeking the kidnapers of Jimmy Cash, age 5, who was abducted from his home in Princeton (1) were dispatched to Key Largo (2) and to islands (3) south of the mangrove swamps yesterday.

TRAP FOR WRITER OF EXTORT NOTE TO WIDOW FAILS

Police and federal agents yesterday were investigating a crude attempt to extort $2,000 from Mrs. Mary Muto, 38 years old, a widow who operates a small candy store at 518 South Western avenue to support herself and two children. She received a letter demanding the money on Saturday. Written in Italian, it contained a threat to kill her unless she complied.

The letter directed Mrs. Muto to take the money to Western avenue and 115th street and walk south in Western avenue until she met a man who would ask her for the cash. With 20 policemen and agents hidden along the route, she followed instructions, carrying a dummy money package. No one appeared to claim it.

LAUNDRY BLAZE DAMAGE $10,000; TWO ARE INJURED

Fire did $10,000 damage yesterday to the plant of the Quality Wet-Wash laundry, 444 West 38th street. Inside walls and much of the laundry machinery were damaged. Edward Golad, 604 West 37th street, a passerby, was slightly burned when he tried to drive out one of 25 motor trucks endangered by the flames, and Peter Zyla, 3835 Parnell avenue, a spectator, was bruised by a squirming hosé line.

SEARCH FLORIDA KEYS FOR TRACE OF KIDNAPED BOY

Princeton, Fla., June 5.—[Special.]—A dozen civilians left Princeton today for islands off southern Florida where they will search for the body of James B. Cash Jr., 5 years old, who was kidnaped from his bed eight days ago. Parents of the boy have abandoned hope that he will be returned to them alive, although the senior Cash paid $10,000 ransom.

Under instructions from J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, six men will search islands in Florida bay, off Cape Sable. It is believed a week will be required to complete this task. Six others will search coastal islands in the vicinity of Key Largo.

1,800 Searchers Dismissed.

Of 2,000 men who had been searching for trace of the boy, only 200 were used today. Tonight Hoover thanked the other 1,800 and said their services no longer would be required.

If the federal agents had any definite clews indicating the boy had been taken as far as Cape Sable, 70 miles from his home, they kept their information secret. Yesterday 30 persons were rounded up and brought into Princeton for questioning by Hoover behind guarded doors. The questioning over, they were taken away as secretly as they were brought, and none could be found who would talk.

One man, for whom the agents had been hunting several days, was found yesterday and questioned, but there was no announcement of an arrest.

Curious Jam Vicinity.

Thousands of curious persons milled about the Cash home and filling station today, looking at the rear door screen the kidnaper had cut to gain entrance to the boy's bedroom. They also stood about watching the federal agents who entered and left the field headquarters.

The narrow back road on which Cash dropped $10,000 in the hope that his son would be returned safely to him within a few hours was jammed with sightseers who drove out to see the exact spot where Cash received the signal from a parked car.

Federal agents hope by tomorrow that curiosity will have subsided, leaving them unhampered in their search.

We've added an extra pair of trousers to the regular one-trouser suit at $17.75—and for $23.25 we give you a two-trouser suit. Think what that means. To Palm Beach's established coolness, wrinkle-resistance, and comfort is added twice as much wear.

You can buy one of the new dark Palm Beaches for business and while the wrinkles are "hanging out" of one pair of trousers, you can wear a fresh pair. You can buy a sport style suit to wear for business—and save wear on the trousers by changing to the contrasting slacks at night and for week-ends.

Of course, if you prefer a Palm Beach suit with one pair of trousers. at the regular one-trouser price of $17.75, you can get it here. 2,000 FAMILIES LEAVE MARKS ON FEDERAL HOUSES

All Sides Complain About 3 Chicago Projects.

Tenants Complain, Too.

But the complaints—if there are any—over these things would not go unanswered. For the tenants have their complaints, too, about these homes that were glistening new only a few months ago.

The chief protest arises from the fact that there are no door bells for the apartments. This, say the tenants, makes the buildings a peddlers' paradise. Inasmuch as there are no locked doors to bar them from the buildings the peddlers roam the halls knocking on doors. [The only door bells are on a few of the buildings in the Trumbull Park project, on the far south side.]

The lighting arrangements are bad in some of the rooms, the tenants add. For example, there are ceiling lights only in the kitchens and bathrooms. Bedrooms and living rooms have wall and baseboard outlets.

Eviction Is Feared.

For all of that, the tenants realize they are getting far better homes in the projects than they could afford outside them. For a two room flat they pay $21. For five rooms—the largest—the price is $31.50. The four room unit is $27.35. These rentals include water, heat, refrigeration, and a liberal allowance of electricity and gas.

Because the electricity is free, there has been a noticeable waste of it. An observer passing the buildings late at night noticed that nearly all bathroom lights were left burning, presumably all night, and that many other lights were left on with little regard for cost.

Most of the tenants are keenly aware of their good fortune and one of their greatest fears is that some one—a neighbor or a janitor—will report an infraction of the rules to the agents and cause the offender's eviction. [Leases can be broken in 15 days, by either landlord or tenant.]

Exodus Constantly Rumored.

One of the greatest annoyances, one tenant said, is that there are always rumors of a big exodus; that the managers of the buildings are preparing to oust large numbers of the residents. Some think the ouster order will be based on an accumulation of minor rule infractions. Others think there is some mysterious reason that will materialize only when notice is given. [Agents of the buildings declare these rumors are baseless; that serious rule infractions or nonpayment of rent will be the only causes for evictions.]

One of the rules designed to protect the property that has annoyed many tenants is that which forbids the driving of nails into the walls. Not that hooks may not be put up for the hanging of pictures; they may, but a representative of the office must affix them to the wall, to insure protection to the walls.

Janitors Comment, Also.

This much for the tenants and the landlord agents. Comments of the janitors give the picture third dimension. These janitors are young fellows mostly, who have had no previous experience in their work. They needed jobs, applied for them, and got them. After a period of probation, if they are approved, they will join the janitors' union. Their salaries run from $125 to $135 a month.

Many of them were residents of the neighborhood before the old blighted areas were cleared for erection of the projects.

"They may have removed the old buildings," one of the janitors remarked, as he wielded a broom. "The old buildings are gone but the cast of characters remains the same. They never have anything and never will.

"One of the hardest things here is to teach them cleanliness. We have chutes down which they are supposed to drop their garbage after wrapping it in paper. Bundles that are too large are to be carried down. But will they do it? No! O, some of them do, lots of them, in fact; but there are lots of them who don't.

"In the old days they just tossed it out the window or kicked it around till it got lost. It's hard for them to learn to do it the right way."

"They are afraid they will be thrown out," one janitor declared. "That is pretty well understood here and many of the people are beginning to take it to heart. Well, after all, I suppose they must be given time to get accustomed to nice surroundings."

When Damage Is Done.

This statement is borne out by the fact that most of the damage is done on days when the janitors are off duty. They are off every Sunday and on all holidays.

Whatever else may be said of the projects—especially the Jane Addams homes—they are concentrated melting pots. Jewish, Italian, and other races mingle. Along the streets and in the courtyards, white and Negro children play together.

Men and women of many races lean through French windows and scream at one another across the courtyards in mirth or in rage—it is hard to distinguish which. If noise is a yardstick for happiness, everyone in the projects is happy.

Taxis Do Big Business.

There are lines of small automobiles parked in front of the buildings and taxicabs, especially on Saturday nights, do a big business, driving tenants away or bringing their friends to see them.

Beer flows freely on these nights. Children cross and recross the streets with cans and buckets.

And though this would make it appear that the projects are booms to the neighborhood tavern keepers, one of them insisted that it is not so.

"Give me the days when we had the old shacks and tumbledowns," he said. "Beer was a dime then and we sold more of it. These people are the stingiest and meanest I have ever seen. Give me the old days."

Grocer Is Discouraged.

And he was supported in this by several grocers. One who felt more keenly than the others said:

"I wish these people would buy from someone else. They are breaking me. I have lowered my prices twice and they still howl that I am too high."

And thus do the housing projects and their tenants appear to an observer who looked at the scene from the landlord's viewpoint; through the tenants eyes, from the janitors' position and through the eyes of the neighborhod. Of the four, only the landlord seemed grateful. At least, he didn't say he wasn't.

Protects Workers

The effect of light, air, and noise in industry on the worker's health will be discussed at the 23d annual meeting of the American Association of Industrial Physicians which will open today at the Palmer house and continue through Thursday.

PROJECT TO CUT LAKE DIVERSION 90% UNDER WAY

Expect to Finish Program Next January.

The $60,000,000 construction program of the Chicago sanitary district and Public Works administration to reduce lake water diversion for sewage treatment purposes is approximately 90 per cent complete or under construction, Ross Woodhull, president of the district, said yesterday. The program was started in 1933 and will be completed by next January.

The United States Supreme court ruled in 1930 that the diversion of lake water by the sanitary district, then approximately 6,000 cubic feet per second, must be reduced to 1,500 cubic feet per second by January, 1939.

Intake Cut Slightly.

According to William H. Trinkhaus, chief engineer for the district, the present diversion is about 5,000 cubic feet per second, divided between the North Shore channel entrance at Wilmette, the Chicago river, and the Calumet river.

Diversion at Wilmette is about 200 cubic feet per second, about 3,500 feet at the Chicago river, and 1,200 feet at the Calumet river. In January the diversion is expected to be 80 cubic feet per second in the North Shore channel, 780 feet in the Chicago river, and 150 in the Calumet river, or a total of 1,010 cubic feet per second. About 490 cubic feet per second will be reserved for storm periods when storm water overflows into the river.

"All water passing through the district channel from the Lake Michigan watershed is included in the 1,500 cubic feet so storm water must be included," Trinkhaus explained.

He said that $47,000,000 has been paid to contractors for completed work and approximately $54,000,000 worth of construction work is under contract or completed.

South Side Plant Nearly Ready.

The $13,000,000 southwest plant, which will treat sewage and return an almost pure affluent to the sanitary canal, is about 80 per cent complete, with two minor pipe insulation and landscape contracts to be let.

The $3,000,000 lock and control works at the mouth of the Chicago river, which will keep the river from flowing into the lake during storm periods, is about 85 per cent complete and will be in operation in the fall. The lock itself, through which all boats will pass to enter or leave the river, will be in service in August, when the retaining walls between the lock and land are completed, Trinkhaus said.

The $1,307,800 six mile Calumet intercepting sewer, from the City of Calumet to the new Calumet treatment works at 130th street and Indiana avenue, will be placed in operation this week and will remove the last sewage from the Calumet river, according to Trinkhaus. He said that by next year no industrial waste will be dumped into the river.

Seek Bids on New Sewer.

Bids will be taken shortly for construction of a sewer connecting with the Calumet treatment works and running southwest through the suburbs of Blue Island, Posen, Markham, and Oak Forest. A small section of sewer extending north from the sewer west of the Calumet treatment works and connecting with Evergreen Park, is being constructed with WPA labor.

CCC JOBS OPEN THIS WEEK FOR JOBLESS YOUTHS

Leo M. Lyons, commissioner of the Chicago Relief administration, yesterday advised young unemployed men who want jobs opening up in the Civilian Conservation corps in July to apply this week at the relief stations where they have been receiving aid or at 740 Harrison street.

Only unemployed youths between the ages of 17 and 23, unmarried and not in school, citizens of good character, and physically able to do manual work may qualify.

The city's nineteen relief stations, closed since the CRA exhausted its funds on May 18, are scheduled to reopen about the middle of this week.

ENCOURAGE HOME BUILDING, STATE URGED IN REPORT

Demolition of unfit dwellings and steps to encourage the construction of residential buildings throughout the state are recommended in the annual report of the Illinois state housing board submitted yesterday to Gov. Horner.

Referring to the housing problem in Chicago, the report states: "The program of demolition has been discontinued, although the records indicate that at least 10,000 seriously substandard buildings are still occupied as residences and other buildings are lapsing into a similar condition rapidly."

FRANCE INVADED BY AIR BOMBING UNIT FROM SPAIN

Nine Planes Drop Missils on Two Towns.

These sources said the rebel and Italian officers, fighting together against government Spain, engaged in fisticuffs among themselves and exchanged revolver shots last Sunday.

That was the day set aside for day-long festivities celebrating "Italian and Spanish solidarity."

Several Spanish officers were arrested.

It was learned that two of Franco's right hand aids, Gen. Gonzalo Queipo de Llano and Gen. José Moscardo, were among officers attending the meeting the generalissimo called at Burgos, capital of rebel Spain.

Rebels said there had been additional "brushes" between Italians and Spaniards in other cities within the rebel territory, but that the major trouble had taken place at Saragossa and Malaga.

Pledge to Avoid Trouble.

Franco and his officers were understood to have agreed that "coöperation" between rebel Spain and Italy would not be changed by the incidents.

They decided, however, to do their utmost to prevent their recurrence in the future.

[Reports of increasing bitterness against Italian and German influence in rebel Spain were brought to Gibraltar Saturday by travelers crossing the border and by rebel officers themselves. "The dictatorial manner of the Italian officers is unbearable," said one officer. He attributed unrest in rebel circles to discord between staf officers and the Germans and Italians. Other arrivals at Gibraltar said that feeling had been aroused by fears among rebel officers that the Italians and Germans intended to maintain a military hold on the country when the civil war ends.]

Four British Sailors Killed.

BARCELONA, June 5.—(AP)—An official communique disclosed today that four members of the crew of the British tanker Maryad, which was bombed by a rebel seaplane near Alicante, had been killed.

The attack took place early yesterday. An earlier version of the attack was that only one man was killed—thrown into the sea by an exploding bomb.

Block Rebels' Shortcut.

HENDAYE, France [at the Spanish Frontier], June 5.—(AP)—A back to the wall defense of Lucena del Cid, an inland gateway to Castellon de la Plana and Valencia, appeared today to have blocked an attempted shortcut to rebel conquest of those two coastal cities of eastern Spain.

Galician troops under Gen. José Varela were reported yesterday to have driven to a position two miles from Lucena. Today's dispatches amended this somewhat, but the rebels still were within a few miles of the town.

Lucena, with a population of 5,000 and a center for the iron and lead mining industry, is sixteen miles northwest of Castellon, about forty miles north of Valencia, and about fifteen miles inland from one of two main coastal highways into Castellon.

Despite fierce counterassaults, Varela's Galicians fanned out north and northwest of Lucena, with their most advanced position just southeast of the village of Villahermosa.

The main government defense was based on two hamlets—Martin, west of Lucena, and Collett, to the north. These were the immediate objectives of a rebel outpost midway between the hamlets, a hill along the Lucena river valley.

Planes Raid France

Arrows at top locate two towns in France bombed by nine planes which flew from Spain. The planes were reported to have flown nearly to Foix, fifty miles inside French territory, returning to Spain and bombing Puigcerda. On the civil war front loyalist defenders at Lucena del Cid blocked the rebel attempt to reach the sea by a short cut. Heavy dotted lines indicate the battle fronts.

BRITISH ASK U. S. TO AID PROBE OF RAIDS IN SPAIN

Seek to Halt Killing of Civilians.

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 5.—Great Britain has asked the United States to cooperate in the formation of a neutral commission to decide whether the objectives of Spanish rebel air raids on loyalist territory have any military character, it was learned tonight.

[In Washington, D. C., the state department said the request has been taken under consideration, but no decision has been announced.]

The British scheme is directed toward minimizing the slaughter of noncombatants in the civil war.

Fear for Anglo-British Pact.

Norway and Sweden are among other countries invited to participate in such an investigation.

While this new line of pacification is being pursued it is understood that Premier Neville Chamberlain's much vaunted Anglo-Italian pact is near collapse without ever going into effect.

The Franco-Italian negotiations which followed it and which were considered necessary to make it a success still are in a state of suspense and the latest reports here are that they probably will not be taken up again for some time.

Italians Delay Talks.

The Italians refuse to resume the talks, it is understood, until the French first send an ambassador to Rome fully accredited to Victor Emmanuel as king of Italy and emperor of Ethiopia, and, second, block the flow of arms and other aid to the government forces which the Italians assert are crossing the Pyrenees frontier.

The real hitch, it is reported here, is that the French have asked the Italians to agree to back them up in opposing any German effort to grab the Sudeten [Nazi minority] area of Czechoslovakia.

FRANCE WARNS WORLD SHE IS 'NOT ISOLATED'

Premier Lashes at Use of Violence in Europe.

LYONS, France, June 5.—(AP)—Premier Edouard Daladier warned the world today France was "not isolated" in her determination to prevent "force from becoming the judge of all human relations."

He spoke before a large crowd at the inauguration of a monument honoring those who died in the French health service during the world war.

"We count on the moderation, spirit, and conciliation of the people to solve the present difficulties," he said, and added with a smash of his fist on the rostrum: "We also count on our strength to spare Europe from recourse to violence."

Recalls Demonstration.

"We are not isolated to carry out this task," Daladier asserted as he concluded with what was considered an open reference to Great Britain's support and recent statements by Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles of the United States.

"Other nations are animated with the same resolve," he said. "They just gave us a moving and striking demonstration of it only a few days ago."

[Last Friday Hull in an address denounced the use of force as an instrument of policy and called for united backing of a program to restore the principles of "order under law" in the world. On the same day Welles made public the American government's condemnation of aerial bombings of civilians in Spain and China.]

Military Chiefs Present.

To add to the importance of his speech Daladier flew to Lyons with Air Minister Guy La Chambre, Navy Minister Cesar Campinchi, and Maj. Gen. Marie Gustave Gamelin, chief of general staf.

Representatives of most embassies and legations were seated on the platform with Edouard Herriot, president of the chamber of deputies, who acted as host in his capacity as mayor of Lyons. Among them was Lieut. Col Horace H. Fuller, military attaché in the United States embassy in Paris

Lightning Kills Mother, Daughter, Injures Three

Newark, N. J., June 5.—[Special.]—Lightning killed a woman and her 13 year old daughter and injured three others, including her husband and another child late today as they ran for shelter under a tree in a downpour of rain that interrupted a baseball game in a park here. The dead were Mrs. Arthur Joseph Lewis, 33 years old, and her daughter Helen, who died in a hospital.

Kidnapers Feared

SHIRLEY ANN TAUBER.

Glen Ellyn police and the Du Page county sherif's office were asked yesterday to investigate what is believed to have been an attempt to kidnap Shirley Ann Tauber, 15 months old, youngest of the six children of Carl G. Tauber, grocer of Glen Ellyn. The Tauber home is at 354 Hawthorne avenue.

The attempt—the third of its kind—was made late Saturday night. At that time Miss Margaret Williams, the maid, heard a scraping noise outside of Shirley's nursery. She turned on the lights, and saw a heavyset man holding a knife at the window. She screamed, and he fled. He had cut the screen.

Two months ago Miss Williams chased a man away from the same window, and last fall Ruth, 14, another daughter of Tauber, had a similar experience. Tauber and State Representative Joseph Sam Perry, a friend said they feared some one wanted to kidnap the little girl.

GUNNERY CREW IS SLAIN; THEIR DOG DEFENDS GROUND

SARAGOSSA, Spain, June 5.—(AP)—Rebel soldiers tell the story of a large dog which defended a government machine gun nest after its masters were killed.

An officer leading the rebel force that wiped out the machine gun crew was impressed by the bravery of the animal which stood by the silenced gun, growling and barking as the rebels closed in.

He ordered his men not to shoot. The dog had to be driven away with sticks and stones. After the rebels took the position the dog came whimpering back. It was slightly wounded. The rebels dressed the wounds and the dog became their mascot.

JAPANESE REACH RAIL LINE; DRIVE TOWARD HANKOW

Chinese Prepare to Battle for Chengchow.

SHANGHAI, June 6.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Two mighty armies battled today for control of the most strategic railway intersection in China, while a Japanese flying column was reported to have reached the Peking-Hankow railway at a point 210 miles north of Hankow.

Arrow locates town where Japanese reached rail line.

Foreign quarters in Hankow, the provisional Chinese capital, said the Japanese force had reached Yencheng, about 80 miles south of Chengchow where the railway intersects the east-west Lunghai line.

Japanese forces captured Kaifeng, twenty-eight miles east of Chengchow. Japanese artillery pounded the walls and gates of Kaifeng for hours before the Chinese defenders withdrew to the west. Lack of severe fighting within the walled city of Kaifeng was considered assurance the sixty or seventy foreigners there, nearly half of them Americans, were safe.

Advance Gathers Speed.

Foreign sources in Hankow declared Chinese were evacuating Chengchow, indicating a general collapse of Chinese central front resistance. The Japanese said "the advance along the Lunghai now is exceptionally fast." The declared the fall of Kaifeng "threw the Chinese into confusion."

Chinese in Hankow last night indicated the Lunghai army was establishing a new defense line between Kaifeng and Chengchow— apparently a tacit admission that Kaifeng was lost but that Chengchow would be strongly defended.

The Japanese need Chengchow for a southward drive on Hankow, if rail lines are to be used all of the way.

A cross-country shortcut drive between the two railways, without occupation of Chengchow would expose the Japanese to danger from strongly entrenched Chinese on the right flank.

Naval Transport Sinks.

The Chinese reported 500 Japanese soldiers were "virtually annihilated" north of Kaifeng yesterday when they assaulted Chinese positions.

Foreign shipping circles in Shanghai reported a 10,000 ton Japanese naval transport sank in the mouth of the Yangtze river Friday when it missed its course in a fog and struck underwater rocks. The full cargo of munitions was said to have been lost but the ship's personnel was saved.

The Japanese reported another victory on the second day of guerrilla naval warfare off the South China coast—the sinking of eight armed Chinese junks north of Hainan Island.

Three steel plated junks were sunk Saturday, another was disabled and the remaining two of the "squadron" which attacked a Japanese patrol boat were put to flight by naval warplanes.

A report from Tientsin, in Japanese controled North China, said that bombs were thrown at two Japanese owned theaters. There were no casualties and the terrorists escaped. One theater was burned.

Warships Move Up River.

HANKOW, June 5.—Japanese warships on Saturday steamed up the Yangtze and from near Kweichih began shelling Anking, former provincial capital of Anhwei province, according to reports from Kiukiang. Twelve ships were reported in the move up the river. The Yangtze is now rising, permitting navigation by large vessels. A Japanese attempt to break through at Matang near Kiukiang is feared.

Assassin's Victim

MARGARET KRUIS.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Five years after she was shot in the head by Giusseppe Zangara, who attempted to slay President Roosevelt in Miami, Fla., Feb. 15, 1933, Miss Margaret Kruis suffers headaches. She was among those shot down when the madman opened fire, missing the President but fatally wounding Mayor Anton J. Cermak of Chicago. When she had recovered sufficiently Miss Kruis was given a job in Washington with the bituminous coal commission. Since her arrival here she has attended several White House teas.

CAPITOL BIG WIGS CUT CAPERS AND HARVEST THE HAY

Frederick, Md., June 5.—(AP)—An exclusive quarter acre of alfalfa, grown especially for the occasion, was harvested yesterday by a crew of farm hands which included Vice President John Nance Garner, a dozen congressmen, an admiral, a general, and about 500 others.

The harvesting was the star event of the Alfalfa club annual outing on the estate of John Hines, Washington realtor. Some circus performers had been hired to entertain the guests, but they failed to appear, so the congressmen put on their own circus.

Senator Millard Tydings [D., Md.] drew cheers as he took a turn at a punching bag. "Sock it, Millard," he was encouraged. "Just think it's the New Deal."

BOY RESCUED FROM WELL.

Taylorville, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—Rescued from a 25 foot well filled with water to a depth of 15 feet, Richard Young, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Young of Taylorville, was reported none the worse for the experience today. The lad fell into the well while playing.

JAP PLANES RAID CANTON 7TH DAY; 200 MORE DEAD

Bombs Fall Among Crowds Fleeing for Safety.

BULLETIN.

HONGKONG, June 6 (Monday).—(AP)—Japanese warplanes resumed their raids on Canton today, dropping more than 100 bombs. Fifty planes took part in the raids, which were directed chiefly at government buildings, railway stations, and electric power plants. The number of casualties was not known immediately, but it was believed they would be heavy.

HONGKONG, June 5.—(AP)—Fifty Japanese warplanes attacking in relays killed an estimated 200 Chinese in Canton today in an air raid which lasted more than an hour.

The bombing followed heavy raids yesterday in which the reported casualties in the heart of the South China metropolis alone were 600 dead and 1,000 injured. [Some authorities placed the death toll as high as 1,000.]

It marked the seventh day of air attacks since a week ago yesterday when officials placed the toll at 750 dead and 1,350 wounded. The raids continued despite the American and British protests last week.

Rail Station a Target.

Current raids have carried to a peak of destruction the aerial drive begun last year to end Canton's usefulness as the gateway for Chinese supplies.

The Wongsha and Taishatou railroad stations and government buildings were the principal targets today. Six accurately aimed bombs fell on the Wongsha station area, demolishing locomotive sheds.

Railway lines also were attacked, including the junction of the Canton-Kowloon railway leading to Hongkong and the Canton-Hankow system.

The war planes, coming over in units of five and six, launched their attacks shortly before noon and pounded the city steadily until 1 p. m. One missil exploded in Winghon road, Canton's principal thoroughfare. A 500 pound bomb fell at the gate of Sun Yat-sen university, making a crater 30 feet deep and 45 feet across. A smaller one struck a dugout on the campus, killing six students.

Fifty Houses Wrecked.

One woman was buried under 15 feet of debris. She finally was removed alive after four hours. Fifty houses were wrecked in one area. First aid workers still were searching ruins for possible victims of yesterday's attacks when today's air raids began.

Rescue squads were unable to cope with the masses of fallen masonry and hundreds were believed to have died during the night beneath the ruins.

Canton's streets last night were packed with civilians, all seized with the single idea of getting away.

GIRL WHO WON 5 SCHOLARSHIPS SOLVES PROBLEM

Most school pupils consider themselves lucky if they can win one competitive scholarship, but yesterday Patricia Curran, 13 years old, had her choice of five.

Patricia has led her class at St. Ita's grammar school, where she will be graduated June 14, for the last three years, averaging 99.33 in the sixth and seventh grades, and 98 in the eighth. She decided to take no chances when it came to scholarship examinations, so she entered those given by five Catholic high schools—Alvernia, Immaculata, Josephinum, Our Lady of Good Counsel, and Mount St. Mary's. She was among the winners each time.

Yesterday she told her mother, Mrs. James T. Curran of 1300 Rosedale avenu, that Alvernia was her choice, and there she will enroll next fall.

HOBBYHORSE

By CALEB

UNDER THE magic of spare-time alchemy a bit of steel tubing and an old auto headlight reflector become a graceful vase, covered with the delicate, curving traceries of a growing vine. One of our maintenance engineers did that.

A miniature house appears—complete and correct in detail down to each little floor board, window casement, wall decoration, shingle roof and red-bricked chimney. One of our linen salesmen did that.

A snapshot of a beautiful garden is enlarged to oil painting size, and expertly, tastefully colored. A housekeeper did that. There are many others: intricate wood carvings by a night watchman, striking wooden plaques created by the driver of a delivery truck—all the products of spare time and sustained enthusiasm.

This week in our store we are having an exhibit just among ourselves. We call it "Hobby Week," and those of us who have spare time hobbies trot them out. In the Employes' Library where big cases have been set up, we display them to best advantage. Occasionally, when we get a minute away from regular duties, we steal in to revel unrecognized in the admiration of associates.

There they stand, those hobbies—literally scores of them. They represent countless hours of effort—but effort that was relaxation in the finest sense. The impulse to create something—to express an inner urge toward the beautiful and artistic is not confined to the Cellinis, Mozarts, and Rubenses. All of us have it. Stifling it is foolish, dangerous—and unnecessary.

And so—our hobby show. An audience isn't essential to pleasure in a hobby—but approval, admiration and praise are pleasant. Most important of all, the exhibition of hobbies helps us know each other better. It reveals unsuspected facets of character and personality. There are those of us who find it hard to express ourselves in words. But a strikingly fine oil painting, an inlaid piece of woodwork, a miniature, or a delicate wood carving speak volumes.

Those of us who have no special skill with hands, collect the art of others. There are stamps, coins, autographs, Indian trinkets, carvings and paintings—and many others.

It's great fun. Whether or not we make any permanent contribution to art, we do contribute to the development and the enjoyment of our group.

Thousands Attend Rally in Bratislava.

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, June 5.—(AP)—Slovak peasants shouted demands for self-government today as they marched through the streets of Bratislava with a great show of blue banners.

Behind thousands of banner bearers and with dozens of brass bands, the followers of Father Andreas Hlinka, leader of the Slovak autonomist movement, rallied in the square in front of the Municipal theater.

There, on the spot where Bratislava's first theater was built in 1776, the aged Hlinka came on the theater balcony to reiterate the demands of the country's 2,300,000 Slovaks for fulfillment of the Pittsburgh treaty and its guarantee of Slovakian autonomy.

[The Pittsburgh treaty, signed June 30, 1918, was an agreement between Czech and Slovak groups in the United States setting forth the principle that Czechoslovakia, then being formed, should grant "cultural self-government" to Slovaks.]

Reads Draft of Proposed Law.

"Slovaks never will rest," Father Hlinka said, "until the fulfillment of the Pittsburgh treaty, which to us is a sacred document."

While church bells tolled, the priest read the draft of a proposed law establishing Slovakia as an autonomous state within the Czechoslovak republic.

Black portion shows area largely populated by Slovaks with arrow pointing to site of Slovak autonomy rally.

When other speakers mentioned the name of Premier Milan Hodza—himself a Slovak, but not an autonomist—the crowd booed and hissed.

An American Slovak delegation which is on a tour of the country attended the rally. The delegation, headed by Dr. Peter P. Hletko of 5750 South Francisco avenue, Chicago, brought the Pittsburgh treaty to Czechoslovakia for exhibition at the republic's twentieth anniversary celebration next Oct. 28.

Father Hlinka made frequent references to American democracy and the visitors from that country.

"You did not come just to make a noisy demonstration, you did not come to make this region ripe for war, but for autonomy and peace which follows autonomy," the Slovak leader told his audience.

Benes Reviews Parade.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 5.—(AP)—The Czechoslovak Social Democratic party today celebrated its 60th anniversary here in a counter demonstration to the Slovak autonomy rally at Bratislava. President Eduard Benes reviewed a parade in which an estimated 100,000 members took part.

"If today we stand before the world as a firmly united political entity, we owe it to a generation of pioneers who have trained our people politically in the years gone by," the president said.

While the celebration was under way a report came from Maxdorf, near the German frontier, that police broke up a procession staged by 300 followers of Konrad Henlein, chieftain of the Sudeten German minority. Leaders of the dispersed group said one of their men was hurt seriously and that 15 others were injured slightly by police nightsticks.

HEAD OF CUBAN PAPER HAS DUEL; FACES ONE MORE

HAVANA, Cuba, June 5.—(AP)—Ruben De Leon fought one duel today and had one to go. The secretary of the Cuban Revolutionary party and director of the daily newspaper Patria settled the first affair of honor on his schedule when he and Senator Ramon Vasconcelos, president of the Liberal party, dueled with swords.

Both were wounded slightly when they met in the early dawn on a nearby estate. They left reconciled over differences arising from comments Vasconcelos made in the newspaper El Pais, leading to a challenge by De Leon to the senator.

When De Leon recovers sufficiently from wounds in his right arm, he has on his program a duel with Octavio Garceran, nephew of President Laredo Bru. Garceran challenged him because of an article in yesterday's edition of Patria.

U. S. ENVOY CHATS WITH STALIN ON WORLD AFFAIRS

MOSCOW, June 5.—(AP)—Ambassador Joseph E. Davies of the United States talked "world affairs" for two hours today with Josef Stalin in one of the rare meetings the communist dictator has had with a foreign diplomat.

The American envoy went to the Kremlin to say a formal farewell before departing Friday to assume his new post as ambassador to Belgium. Davies paid his respects to V. M. Molotov, president of the council of peoples' commissars.

"During my visit to Molotov's office Mr. Stalin joined our discussion, which lasted two hours," Davies said later. "I am very glad to have had the opportunity of meeting him before leaving for my new post in Brussels. We had a most interesting talk covering the broad field of general world affairs."

GIRL OF 10 WINS FROM ELDERS IN PARKS ARCHERY

A pretty blonde girl, only 10 years old, showed more than 300 boys, girls, men, and women yesterday how to shoot with a bow and arrow. She is Charlotte Clark, 7541 Kingston avenue. She won first prize in the finals of the archery contest held in Grant park under the sponsorship of the Chicago park district.

Charlotte Clark.

Shooting from thirty yards at a target only two feet in diameter, she scored 582 points. On the basis of ninety-six arrows to each contestant and a maximum of nine points for each bull's-eye, the possible top score was 864. Charlotte's prize is a free plane trip to Hollywood.

Bert Archambault, 881 Rush street, was second with 575 points. He shot in the men's division, class A. Olide Layer scored 525 points to win in the women's division, class A, and Ed Wendelborg made 562 points to lead class A for boys. The shooting distances were 60 yards for men, 50 for women, 40 for boys, and 30 for girls. Madelyn Busch and Dave Widman won in the women's and men's clout division. F. E. Karges, director of crafts for the park district, supervised the contest.

TIPPLERS AMONG US CARRY 6% OF TOTAL TAX LOAD

Dig Down for 1 Billion 22 Millions Per Year.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—Taxes on beer, wine, and liquor account for more than 6 per cent of all revenue collected by federal, state, and local governments.

According to a compilation by the Distilled Spirits institute, public revenues from alcoholic beverages totaled $1,022,275,727 in the calendar year 1937. In the same period taxes for all governments totaled more than 16 billion dollars.

Federal income from internal revenue and duties on alcoholic beverages totaled $632,929,543; state taxes gathered $305,771,547, and county and municipal taxes aggregated $33,574,635. Miscellaneous federal, state, and local mercantile, business income, and property taxes, exclusive of social security and unemployment assessments, were estimated to yield in excess of $50,000,000.

Third Largest Source.

This form of revenue now is the third most important source of all governmental income, exceeded only by property and income taxation; it is second to income taxation as a form of federal income. The total of federal revenues in the fiscal year 1937 was 5 billion 293 million dollars.

Alcoholic beverage revenues represented more than 10 per cent of all federal receipts and more than 12 per cent of state receipts in 1937. In many states alcoholic beverages have become the first or second most important source of revenue.

In the fiscal year 1937 it is estimated that the state governments obtained a total of 3 billion 700 million dollars in tax revenue. The state alcoholic beverage tax collections of 305 million dollars represent about 12 per cent of this total.

Local Bite Is Smaller.

In the same period local governments collected more than 7 billion dollars. These got but a fraction of a per cent—about 33 million dollars—of their revenues from alcoholic beverages. They shared heavily, however, in the estimated 50 million dollars paid in miscellaneous taxes.

According to the Distilled Spirits institute, state tax collections reveal that four states obtained more than $25,000,000 in revenue from alcoholic beverages. These are New York, $47,218,675; Ohio, $40,170,805; Pennsylvania, $38,245,828; Illinois, $26,479,192.

Three states—California, Michigan, and New Jersey—obtained in excess of $10,000,000 through alcoholic beverage taxation. In all but six states collections totaled more than $1,000,000. Mississippi, with $374,118, and Nevada, $380,259, benefited least from this form of taxation.

PARK AND SCHOOL PROJECTS GET 3 MORE MILLIONS

H. K. Seltzer, Chicago director of the Works Progress administration, said yesterday that a new appropriation of $3,000,000 had been received for completion this year of three projects in the city's parks and school playgrounds. They include landscaping improvement and drainage of playgrounds and school basements, expansion of recreation equipment in parks, and landscaping and tree trimming along parkways on the north side. The projects provide work for more than 4,000 men.

Freud Consoled by U. S. Envoy on Flight to Exile in London

PARIS, June 5.—(AP)—Dr. Sigmund Freud, tired but in excellent spirits, arrived in Paris today from Nazified Vienna and after a few hours of rest departed for a haven in England.

Ambassador William C. Bullitt of the United States was one of the first to climb aboard the Orient express to welcome the Jewish scientist of 82 years whose researches on the influence of sex on behavior won him world fame.

Freud, a slight figure dressed entirely in gray, leaned heavily on Bullitt's arm as he waved aside a wheel bed prepared for him. He insisted on walking the whole length of the station to an automobile.

Freud, founder of psychoanalysis, expressed surprise because the ambassador met him on his flight from the city which was his home since childhood.

"But, sir," Bullitt replied, "aside from our friendship it is only the respect due a person of your distinction."

After resting at the fashionable Passy home of his friend, Princess George of Greece, the former Marie Bonaparte, Freud, his wife, his daughter Anna, and a son, Ernst, a London architect, hastened to the North station. There they boarded a train for Dunkerque to take a boat for London, where Freud was reported to have rented a house.

"I am looking forward to my future life with my students, my books, and my studies in England," the scientist told his friends in a weak voice as he left them at the railway station.

"They let me bring some things out of Austria—just enough to work with. I still have my manuscript on the Bible and my own personal books and papers. Everything else—all my money and property in Vienna—is gone."

The manuscript he referred to is an uncompleted work analyzing the Bible in psychoanalytic terms.

Dr. Freud hesitated a moment as he spoke of his homeland.

"I loved Vienna," he said finally, "but now that's behind me."

HONGKONG MUST BE WON FOR JAPS, PEER DECLARES

TOKIO, June 5.—(AP)—A demand for Japanese control of the British crown colony of Hongkong voiced by Motojiro Sugiyama, a member of Japan's house of peers, today was reported in Domei [Japanese] news agency dispatches from Nagasaki.

Sugiyama's flat declaration that "Japan must control Hongkong" was made as he ended a month's visit to Hongkong. He told newspaper men he would urge the cabinet to take measures toward "controling Hongkong as quickly as possible, both militarily and diplomatically." Sugiyama described huge piles of armaments and railway repair machinery he said he saw on the docks of Hongkong, one of South China's greatest ports.

"Japan's diplomatic negotiations with Britain regarding China have been a long list of successive failures," he declared, adding that now he would advocate "positive steps" to bring the rich British colony under Japanese sway.

LENINGRAD, June 5.—(AP)—Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer and flyer, arrived here today for a five day study of soviet data on the Arctic in preparation for a new attempt next year to reach the north pole by submarine. He was met by Pytor Shirshoff, director of the All-Union Arctic institute and one of the four men who were landed at the north pole last year and drifted on the ice for nine months.

YOU wrote the letters, Congress passed the bill that will wipe out Syphilis

IN AUGUST, 1937, the Ladies' Home Journal published an article on syphilis and the fight scientists are making to conquer it. By Paul de Kruif and Surgeon-General Parran of the United States Public Health Service, its title was "We Can End This Sorrow."

This article was the forerunner of a series of articles and editorials, in which the Journal persistently set before the women of the country the facts about the syphilis plague in America.

Heartened by their readers' response, Journal editors went to Washington in December, 1937, urged the introduction of national legislation which would make it possible to wipe out syphilis. The editors promised to do all in their power to win the support and co-operation of Journal readers—and the La Follette-Bulwinkle Bill was submitted to the Congress.

ON MARCH 8, 1938, the Journal, in an editorial by Bruce Gould and Beatrice Blackmar Gould, called on the women of the country to rally to the support of the bill, then before Congress . . . urged its millions of readers to write their Senators and Representatives supporting it. They did.

ON MARCH 31ST, the Senate passed the La Follette-Bulwinkle Bill—the first national legislation designed to end syphilis in this land.

ON MAY 16TH, the House of Representatives passed it.

ON MAY 24TH, President Roosevelt signed the bill, making it the law of the land, and the White House issued the following statement: "Final enactment of this legislation is due largely to the courageous and energetic support given by women as groups and individuals throughout the United States."

WE PREPARE AGAIN TO SAVE THE WORLD.

One can only wonder what Secretary Hull's Nashville speech about America's rôle in the world will mean when translated into action.

The secretary of state spoke on Friday evening before the Bar association of Tennessee. To those whose memories reach back a little more than twenty years the speech had a familiar, not to say ominous, ring. Once more we are to play the leading part in saving the world, this time not so much for democracy as for civilization. Then it was the duty of the new world to "redress the balance of the old"; today we are to "revitalize the spirit of international coöperation."

Mr. Wilson's high-flown phrases when translated into action meant participation in a war. He, too, was devoted, or so he said, to the cause of peace and of justice in international affairs, but he led us into a war from which we obtained nothing for our enormous sacrifices and into a peace conference whose unjust decisions are in no small degree responsible for the present ills of the world.

Mr. Hull was an earnest and capable supporter of Mr. Wilson in those days. Today he is talking much the same language. His words are fair words, peace, justice, reconciliation, disarmament, humanity, and all the rest of that vocabulary, but what will these words mean when they are translated into policy? Another rescue of Britain? The recent declaration by the state department against bombing looks as if we may be getting ready to spring to England's defense, for she is a probable victim of bombing raids in another war. Another participation in a European war from which we shall emerge a loser whether our soldiers win or not? Another peace conference dominated by selfish ambition? Another disarmament conference in which we shall make the heaviest sacrifices only to discover that the world is arming more heavily than ever? Another Kellogg pact which will be repudiated as promptly as self-interest dictates?

Mr. Hull, so the dispatches from Nashville say, rebuked the isolationists whose "dream of safety and security" he called "a bitter illusion." It was, for Mr. Hull's purpose, an unfortunate choice of words. It may be difficult to keep this country clear of European and Asiatic embroilments, though that should be the constant purpose of the state department. But surely no illusion which this country has held has been so bitterly shattered as the Wilsonian illusion. Mr. Wilson told us we could rescue the world from its follies; we learned to our sorrow that the world did not want to be rescued and certainly not on our terms.

If we have a duty to the world it is to demonstrate that men of many races and creeds can live and prosper together in peace, under law. That we can do best by keeping our country out of war and the entanglements and emotional attitudes that lead to war. It is extremely doubtful if Mr. Hull's speech, for all the nobility of his vocabulary, contributes to that end.

FABLE OF THE SMILING SHERIF.

Mr. Roosevelt wanted to spend his pump priming billions the way he wanted to spend them. He wanted no troublesome conditions attached. His reason was altogether obvious. He wished to spend the money where it would be most useful in removing those senators of his own party who have opposed him from time to time. Thus, Mr. Roosevelt as sherif has been inviting these senators to hang themselves. Their reluctance to do so, we feel justified in asserting, has known no bounds. They were dead [if we may say so] against the idea. It thoroughly displeased them. It offended their sense of propriety. They wanted to attach strings to the appropriations, not to their own necks, and it looked for a time as if they might talk themselves out of their difficulty, but the sherif was smilingly insistent and had his way.

The reluctance of the senators to tie ropes around their necks and jump led the sherif to provide a personal demonstration of how easy and pleasant the process really is if only it is approached in the right spirit. Mr. Roosevelt wrote a letter explaining that he must have his appropriations as he wanted them because the depression was growing more severe from day to day. It has grown considerably worse, the President wrote, than it was only six weeks ago when he launched his pump priming proposal.

That left the sherif himself dangling a bit. What depression, Mr. Sherif? You said there weren't going to be any more of them. You said you had planned it that way. We thought that as soon as one appeared you were going to send it packing. The merest threat from you that action was to be taken was supposed to lick any depression, recession or downward inclination of the indexes.

Now that the sherif has hanged himself the senators have followed his example. They could not hang together, but they could hang themselves together.

LAWS TOO DRASTIC AND LAWS TOO MILD.

There seems to be little reason to hope that the child kidnaped in Florida is alive. The delivery or the attempt to deliver the ransom demanded evidently did not save him. The murder probably took place, regardless of the ransom, to get rid of the living evidence. This and similar tragedies suggest that some laws penalizing kidnaping for ransom may need reconsideration in the light of painful experience and for the purpose of diminishing hazards for the prisoner.

No one will deny that kidnaping for ransom deserves the severest punishment, but there is reason to think that the death penalty seriously increases the hazard of the kidnaped. The criminal faced with death if caught has nothing to lose by killing his victim.

It is true that the Florida law does not insist upon the death penalty. If a majority of the jury recommends the criminal to the mercy of the court the latter may fix his punishment at imprisonment for life. But the kidnaper may well assume that this relaxation is unlikely in circumstances of public indignation attending this crime. Florida might consider whether in the interest of the kidnaped its statute needs revision. The Illinois law provides for the death penalty, but also permits sentences of imprisonment for life or for any term not less than five years. Probably these alternatives reduce as much as is expedient the pressure on the criminal to kill his victim. But of course no mitigation of the penalties which could be tolerated removes altogether the interest of the criminal in getting rid of his hostage as soon as possible. A living victim must be kept concealed and may escape or let his whereabouts be known. While he lives he may give information enabling the police to pursue and capture the kidnaper and thereafter give evidence against him.

Amendments stiffening the penalties have been offered in the Illinois legislature, but have not prevailed. Perhaps a minimum of five years is too low, but on the whole the Illinois statute seems to be on the safe side.

This is not a question of leniency for a cruel and vicious crime. In one guise or another, especially in probation and parole, but also in judicial and jury action in some instances, there is too much leniency. In kidnaping for ransom there is a special situation in which the victim is at the mercy of his captor. This situation cannot safely be overlooked or underestimated.

It is significant of the inconsistency which often shows in our dealing with crime that some heinous offenses fail of drastic punishment. The community is frequently shocked by sex atrocities, committed in many if not in most cases by individuals who have repeatedly committed offenses of this nature. Our dealing with this type of criminal is notoriously inadequate and it would be well to examine the advisability of making the penalties for serious sex crimes heavier. In these crimes the victims are not held by the criminal as in kidnaping and the problem of punishment is not complicated by this fact. The prevalence of sex atrocities, while it opens a complicated problem of control, suggests that more drastic treatment is needed as a deterrent. The advisability of emasculation for rapists and other serious sexual offenders has been given too little consideration. Many or most of these offenders repeat their crimes. Emasculation would remove the impulse to commit these crimes and the threat of it should act as a strong deterrent.

DEFENSE PLANS IN ENGLAND.

Americans arriving from England report their amazement at the meticulous preparation for air raids in that country, as when on stopping for gas at a filling station they receive printed instructions how to behave in such events. Press reports from London, meanwhile, are bringing daily news of preparations so elaborate that they would naturally be dismissed as the figments of reportorial imagination or flippant attempts to spoof the guileless Yankee. But when these preparations are discussed in parliament such suspicions must fade.

Thus the parliamentary undersecretary to the home office has told the commons that a plan has been worked out with the railways for evacuating nearly half of the eight and a half million population of London. The home secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, announced that trenches to provide shelter for 1,500,000 people will be dug in London parks and other open spaces and a ring of tent hospitals will be provided around London to care for the wounded until they can be moved. Thirty million sandbags are already in storage and 275 million are being acquired. Plans are being perfected to make use of the subway as shelter without interrupting the trains and several million pounds sterling will be spent for special precautions to protect the water and lighting systems. We have been hearing that virtually every one in the island is to have a gas mask and be instructed what to do when enemy airplanes approach.

The extent and pace of these preparations suggest that the British government expects an air invasion on a formidable scale at any moment. At this distance it looks like an extreme case of the jitters, but we may be wrong. We in America are quite capable of war scares and our seaboard communities were stricken with a quite ridiculous case of the malady in the Spanish war. And all the British are not taking the situation as seriously as the government seems to be doing. Liberal and laborite spokesmen are suggesting that the procedure, at least in its extreme details, is political rather than military strategy, intended to keep the public in a state of mind favorable to the huge expenditures on armament and to the ministry's policy in foreign relations.

SIGN FOR PICKETS.

[New York Sun.]

As part of an injunction Judge Albert S. C. Millar of Philadelphia ordered labor union pickets in that city to use a sign with a text of his writing. The text, descriptive of a familiar situation, is as follows:

> This establishment is not unfair to organized labor. It is being picketed because of a labor dispute between the Bartenders' union, local No. 115, and the employes of this establishment concerning what organization shall be their bargaining agent.

The only criticism that can be made of this legend is that it is too long. Few of those who must read as they run would take it all in. Far simpler, just as accurate, would be a sign that read: "This establishment is not unfair to organized labor, but was caught in the middle of a headon collision between two rival labor unions."

Feminine Cub Fan.

The most consistent Cub fan to come to attention is Dorothy Strong, a pretty young woman who hasn't missed a Cub game in nine years. She has gone to the ball park on crutches after an automobile accident and with her arm in a sling; she has shivered on chilly days and roasted on hot ones, but she has never missed a game. She knows all the fine points of all the players and any failings. Next week when the Cubs leave for their eastern swing Mrs. Strong will be in the east visiting, and will see the games. Once a year she arranges her visits so she can see the Cubs on tour.

ENTREATY.

Oh, there's music at the dawning,
Shelley's lark is my first choice!
And there's music in the evening,
The nightingale's soft voice.

But the daylight hours are silent;
Then, Muse, let music be
Sounds once taken for granted—
A mason's fantasy.

Let the humming saws of builders
Keep time to the hammers' blow
And the rat-a-tat-tat of the riveters—
Music of long ago.

CUFF NOTES—La Salle street has a heart, and the Board of Trade particularly. By our Chinese grapevine we learn that of the $500.80 thrown on the big flag the Chinese carried in their loop parade last week the largest sum came from the windows of the Board of Trade building.

—One of the songs Helen Morgan is singing in her current répertoire at Chez Paree is "Gloomy Sunday," the number banned in Hungary because 24 persons were so sad after hearing it they committed suicide. When Miss Morgan gets sad she goes home and makes potato soup. That's why she took an apartment on Delaware place with a kitchenette. Novelty—no piano sitting this time; Miss Morgan stands before the mike—in pale pink with black lace ruffles, cute as all get-out.

—The girls in the telephone company use roller skates to go from operator to operator to pick up long-distance call memoranda.

—A woman on a bus asked the driver to please go slowly up State street in the department store section so she could see what was in the windows. He had gone too fast the day before, she added complainingly.

Veteran Showman.

Bill Rice, veteran showman, producer of every kind of outdoor show—those water carnivals, ladies' baseball team events, public weddings and similar festivities you've attended or read about, is ill in the favorite hospital of show folk, the American hospital, on West Irving Park boulevard. He sent a letter to a friend lately saying, "Playing my last stand in Chicago, I fear, and crave company." Although he says he is lonely and sent the lugubrious letter, Bill Rice is full of humorous reminiscence. His career began in 1833 when he ran away from boarding school, joined a carnival, and played in neighborhood lots in Chicago during the World's Fair days.

On a Broken Record in the Park.

'Mendelssohn's "Midsummer Night's Dream."

All in splinters on the sward they lie:
Oberon, Titania, and the lesser faery fry.
When, by aid of moon's bright eye,
Themselves amid the dewy blades descry,
Will their own magic bid them try:
"Royal twain and subject elves unite again
And tread the master's charmed strain."

A CHICAGOAN WITH AN UNUSUAL HOBBY is Fred B. Duncan, who collects—not stamps or old glass, but life histories of old and interesting lake craft. One of the interesting boat histories he has gone into is that of the old Vamoose. Born an aristocrat among New York harbor's yachting fleet in the nineties, she took part in dashing filibuster adventures around Cuba in the days before the Spanish-American war, and spent her old age as Ma Streeter's houseboat, tied up in a corner of the lighthouse slip near the mouth of the Chicago river. She wearily sank at last just where those fisheries stand next to the apartment building that houses the lighthouse tender.

THE LITTLE WATER LILY was going up the river the other day in the sunshine, a shabby little craft with her stern awash. "The Water Lily is a fishing boat," explains Mr. Duncan; "one of those brave souls who cruise the lake all year long, often working through floe ice to reach open water, searching for her net buoys far off shore in as lonely and desolate a sea as the arctic can offer. There are no ore boats or packet steamers running then to give them assistance. A broken down motor means a helpless drift or a rising sea swamps the boat or grinds her to pieces against massed ice. The crews of these fishing boats are hairy chested. They seal up their little cuddy against the fresh cold air and breathe with relish a blend of motor exhaust, pipe smoke, and bilge water."

"YOUR HUGE BLACK FLATIRON," continues Mr. Duncan, "wasn't a tug. It was a lighter, either Commerce or the Industry, both industrious servants of commerce up and down our waterways. On calm days they sometimes venture out to the open lake and slant across to South Chicago, a daring voyage, for they are as flat and shallow as shoe boxes and would make rare sport for a northeaster. The Industry is a child of Buffalo. It must have been fun to bring her out around the lakes, dodging from harbor to harbor."

THANKS, MR. DUNCAN. Tell us more. We want to know, too, about the heroes of the waterways, the courageous or picturesque skippers of the lake and river craft. We want to find out all there is to know about Chicago and her citizens. We want to search out her secrets, find the sources of her extraordinary vitality and flavor, and, paragraph by paragraph, we should like to help make readers know and understand and love their city.

WHEN THE HEART MAY BE FORGOTTEN.

ARE we too heart conscious? Do we give too much concern to the organ that should tick along by itself without a sense of awareness on the part of its owner? If we do, the reason is that we hear so much about heart disease and its disastrous consequences. Perhaps we may have a friend or an acquaintance who is bothered by his "pumper." If so, one's own anxiety may mount; in fact, with some it may become almost an obsession.

Not long ago a woman entered a hospital for an accurate and final checkup on her physical condition. She was certain she had cardiac disease and she could not say enough about the carelessness of her former medical advisers who—so she stated—had not realized the seriousness of her affliction. That was months ago and it may be that she is not convinced as yet, although the most critical and painstaking examination failed to elicit the slightest sign of organic disability.

It was explained to her that she had a heart—yes, and a good one—but that it was irritable. In other words, it responded quickly to apprehension, nervousness, and fears. Her attention had been focused upon the structure because—every once in a while—she could feel it thump. Fortunately, bromides in small doses relieved her symptoms completely and in time she will be able—no doubt—to overcome her anxiety.

Many complaints are voiced by nervous patients, such as extra beats, irregular rhythm, even attacks of rapid beating [tachycardia]. Sometimes the difficulty may be traced to a disturbance within the digestive tract, but more often than not it can be attributed to loss of sleep and fussing about matters which are quite outside one's physical life. But sooner or later the delicate nervous system which governs the beat may react to such an extent that the organ itself will begin to behave like a skittish colt.

We can account for this "jitterness" because we know that the heart is an adaptable machine. Its rate increases whenever the body needs more blood. This is accomplished through the sympathetic nervous system. For example, during vigorous exercise the rate increases twenty beats or more. Were this not the case, exhaustion would come on quickly. In the presence of great effort certain chemicals are produced which in turn stimulate the sympathetic nerves. Approximately the same thing occurs as an accompaniment of fear, or excitement, and like the colt when undergoing training, the heart may flop and jump.

When an individual goes to a physician because he is subject to spells of shortness of breath, the medical man will endeavor to find the meaning of the symptom. I recall a patient—a man in his middle forties—who had such an attack whenever anything went awry at the office. There was nothing organically wrong and—in his case—the cultivation of poise saved the day.

Not infrequently some of these sufferers will tell of pain, and it requires no great diagnostic ability to differentiate true angina from a form of distress that may follow a prolonged tachycardia. There is an inadequate blood supply to the heart muscle and if the rapid rhythm continues for a few hours some pain may be felt. As soon as the chambers have an opportunity to fill with blood the discomfort will vanish.

The first rule in treatment is reassurance couched in such terms that the patient cannot possibly misunderstand. Explanations and instructions must be so specific that the neurosis will disappear in time. Now and then the cause of nervousness can be ascertained and the physician may help in "laying the ghost."

But there is a limit to his resourcefulness. If a son or daughter is giving a mother great concern, a problem is presented which calls for a family council rather than medicine. The great majority of these persons will be helped by an orderly régime of life with sufficient rest. Occasionally small amounts of sedatives are needed.

Another article on the heart will appear tomorrow.

DOUBLE CHIN.

S. G. writes: What can be done to prevent a "double chin" which is in its very early stages? Person involved cannot indulge in strenuous exercises.

REPLY.

First, adopt a reducing diet, as the incident is usually accompanied by a general gain in weight. Second, from 20 to 30 minutes of gentle massage two or three times daily. Third, practice holding the head erect to prevent sagging of the tissues.

FASTER HEART BEATS.

O. D. writes: Just why does the heart beat fast when one is nervous?

REPLY.

The rate of the heart beat is controled by a complicated mechanism which includes the brain, the sympathetic nervous system, and certain structures within the organ. The irritability of the heart muscles is a factor also. Fear, fright, or emotional disturbances of almost any sort will increase the rhythm.

ADDING WEIGHT BY INSULIN.

E. A. M. writes: May a person with low blood pressure take the insulin treatment for gaining weight?

REPLY.

The ability to gain weight is often of great benefit in low blood pressure. This may be aided through the cautious administration of insulin. Increased activity should be encouraged.

FINDS WPA A POLITICAL RACKET.

Chicago, June 2.—I have lived, worked and voted here for twenty years. Was a government employé in Washington, and for several years in Chicago. That was when civil service meant something to one qualifying.

Now the political rats have everything in hand—qualification means nothing. Enter a government office now and one feels almost sorry not to have been born a foreigner.

Here's my experience with the WPA, Merchandise mart: Just before primaries that office handed out applications wholesale. I filled one in for office work. Was called for examination, passed with ease, but told not to call, phone or write; just wait.

Soon the secretary to our alderman called, saying they had received an inquiry regarding me from the WPA office. He said he had sent through an O. K. after finding me a registered voter. The precinct captain called. I asked him where they got my name; that I understood WPA was not political. The precinct captain said it was political; that all applications are sent to a clearing house for investigation. He told me how to vote, and on election day he was at the polls to see that I called for the right ballot.

Result: I have not got the position promised, but I am not the only heel. Many were given applications for the same reason—a vote.

Upon repeated calls on our alderman's secretary, he can only advise that the WPA office is very "cool" when he calls. He explains that WPA claims now it is not political. He has asked me to figure it out.

I have figured it out and can prove my answer: There is plenty of "dirt" to be dug up in our own local WPA office.

GRAYCE D. EPPERSON.

MARVELS MORE AND MORE.

Oak Park, Ill., May 31.—Having been a constant reader of your paper I marvel more and more as time goes on at your dumbness and selfishness in hampering the government.

It does not matter what is proposed you have your hammer ready before you even find out the details.

From the very first of Roosevelt's tenure in office you have been knocking him and I have yet to see you print a single helpful article.

It is nauseating to have you knock and slur all the time because our President has certainly done some good or we people would not still be with him.

GEO. MYERS.

HATS OFF!

Chicago, May 31.—Hat's off to Milton Caniff! Artist, cartoonist, and creator of "Terry and the Pirates."

Not only does his story of the fast moving events involving Pat, Connie, Burma, and Big Stoop hold daily interest, but you'll notice that each and every one of his drawings is an etching in itself, portraying Chinese customs and far east architecture to perfection.

Your story and your style certainly must keep you busy—so here's a "Nice Going," Milt, but hurry and find a cure in your ink bottle for the trouble in Pat's "konk." A CANIFF FAN.

DID HE THANK HER?

Chicago, June 2.—One of my friends had a man come to her back door the other day and ask for money. She refused to give him money but told him she would fix him a sandwich. After receiving a nice deviled ham sandwich he went down and got in his car and drove off. ALVERNE WINGFIELD.

WALLACE PLANNED IT THAT WAY.

Elkader, Ia., May 30.—I have just finished reading Frank Ridgway's article in THE TRIBUNE, and note that dissatisfied cotton raisers in the south who joined the AAA have had to cut down on their cotton and go in for corn and cattle raising.

It might be well if THE TRIBUNE would advise the southern farmer that if he thinks he is going to muscle in on the Iowa corn, hog and cattle business he has another thought coming. The Iowa farmers who are joining the AAA are now raising more corn than ever and on less ground. How are they doing this? Well, listen: The AAA cut down the corn acreage 20 per cent, but the Iowa farmer plants his rows 30 per cent closer together, and puts 5 to 7 kernels of high-bred seed in every hill.

Of course, this will sell more corn for Wallace's high-bred seed company, but wasn't this the way he planned it?

M. A. PALMER.

THE BLOSSOM QUEENS' VISIT.

Benton Harbor, Mich., June 2.—Another year of the Michigan Blossom Queens' visit to Chicago has gone by and as usual THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and its staf went the limit to make their trip one which will be remembered by these girls as they go through life with pleasant memories.

I wish also to extend our thanks to the boys on the city desk and the photographic division for the efforts they made in our behalf. Mr. Lanning should not be forgotten for his courtesies on our tour through your wonderful building.

THE TRIBUNE organization certainly should be complimented for the fine organization and quality of the men that serve it. L. A. BOYD.

PUBLIC NEEDS ASSURANCE.

Williamsville, Ill., May 30.—It's about time some air line official rushed into print or radio to assure the dear public that regardless of the knockers and mossbacks flying is safe—and that the loss of a liner and nine lives doesn't mean a thing. Just a little incident in the forward march of civilization.

Any one who has the price is invited to step forward and be assured that flying is safe—what are a few crackups in the totality of flights?

I prefer to believe the pilots are men of intelligence and should be encouraged to admit danger to their passengers and in many cases save their precious human cargo with parachutes. N. HUSSEY.

12 MONTHS NOT REQUIRED.

Chicago, May 30.—Why should any child be confined in a schoolroom for 12 months? It's enough that the children have to go to school 9 months. If a person looks at some of these children, they are pale because of lack of sunshine, due to the fact that they are confined in the home with their home work. This prevents them from getting sunshine. If Mr. Johnson would look at some of these children he may change his attitude. Hasn't he any consideration whatsoever for the poor school children?

A 9 month term for the children is enough, and means better health.

MAE KARL,
Publicity Chairman, P.-T. A. [North Leavitt Street].

IT'S DIFFERENT IN AUSTRALIA.

Oak Park, Ill., June 1.—My uncle from Australia, a small business man and keen student of affairs, visited recently here. Australia is the most nearly like the U. S. A. in its institutions, political constitution, he remarked. However, it has not the combination of graft and public office that obtains here.

Outside of an extravagant President, and the burocracy, which is the brother of taxes and the step-child of politics, he commented that America has one great deterrent to balancing her budget. The advent of married women in trade, a custom grown since the world war, until it has clogged up the employment situation, is startling in the extreme. He remarked that he "did not see how industry here could carry all these women in trade to the exclusion, obviously, of the chief bread winners."

Apparently the old country attitude of women in the home prevails in Australia, because he said that when a girl wore an engagement ring they made ready to replace her—business is only a passing vocation there for women, not a life work. WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

DISILLUSIONED.

Chicago, June 3.—For your recent propaganda picture of Nathan Hale you might have substituted the typical impoverished revolutionary soldier coming home at the end of seven years' fighting to paper his wall with worthless continental currency, while the mortgage man [who did no warring and acquired his wealth meanwhile] knocks at the door to demand possession of the soldier's little patrimony.

Thousands of these got places in the breadline in reward for their years of service. Why not propagandize these fellows instead of your isolated Nathan Hales, who fell during the war and luckily did not survive to be disillusioned? Your audience is composed of disillusioned warriors of the last war and people acquainted with the results they achieved. You don't fool them with your distorted examples of victimized idealists. NAUSEATED CITIZEN.

AFTERTHOUGHT.

Chicago, June 2.—It seems from a speech of Senator James Hamilton Lewis that he has finally come to the conclusion that government spending on a large scale should cease. He says it has killed the initiative of the people and created a large population who look to the government for their sustenance rather than rely on personal effort. The senator also states it has gone to such an extent that its discontinuance threatens a revolution.

Strange language for a New Dealer. Their claim a few years back was the necessity of the spending spree to prevent a revolution. We would hope that our lawmakers had foresight to see those results when they voted all this "must" legislation. It would appear ordinary intelligence could avoid the unpleasant situations that now confront the nation. R. E. WAGNER.

PATROLMEN.

Chicago, June 3.—Why is it that your paper does nothing to further or speed up the announcing of the new list of patrolmen in the city of Chicago? Must we have another wave of morons and their crimes before anything is done? M. ELM.

OUTING DRIVERS' FATIGUE VIEWED AS ROAD HAZARD

Overnight Rest Decreases Danger of Accidents.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hayward, Wis., June 5.—[Special.]—From lodges, cabins, and cottages on 1,400 lakes in this section of Wisconsin, Chicago automobiles were headed homeward this afternoon.

This movement is a distinct element in the week-end trafic problem of the metropolitan area. And in the north woods here this recreational travel is of first concern to those who build roads and to those who are endeavoring to reduce the loss of lives and limbs on those roads.

The motorists, many of them fishermen and their families, will be straggling wearily into Chicago at midnight or later. Their fatigue and their hurry to be home are not conducive to safety. Psychologists have found that the symptoms of physical exhaustion in many respects resemble those of alcoholic stupor—a dull perception and a tardy response.

Drivers Stop for Rest.

In the metropolitan area safety workers have been encouraged by evidence of a growing practice among these long distance week-end drivers during the last couple of years. A small but increasing number are spending Sunday night 100 or 150 miles from Chicago and driving to work refreshed during the lighter trafic of early Monday morning.

In the north woods hereabouts, Wisconsin each year is opening more oil and gravel roads, cultivating its quarter of a billion dollar a year income from outdoor recreation. The expanding mileage has brought new pine and birch shore lines within ten or twelve hours of the loop and also has increased accidents.

Trafic Misleads Fast Driver.

"The city driver on his infrequent trips into the country doesn't appreciate that these roads aren't designed for his habitually fast cruising rate," said Edward J. O'Meara, trafic engineer of the Wisconsin highway commission. "The trafic isn't heavy enough to warant the investment that would be required to give these roads the visibility ahead at hills and curves like the sight distance built into main highways."

The Tribune road car in touring these sylvan byways during the last two days encountered resident drivers who are not without fault. Rusty, rustic jallopies were noted riding the center crowns of the roadways and moving at such a slow rate that they frequently were tardy in getting to the right for a machine traveling in the opposite direction.

BRIDGE STAYS UP; LAKE STREET 'L' TRAINS DELAYED

Six Lake street elevated trains were held up for more than twenty minutes between 4 and 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon when the Lake street bridge over the Chicago river remained up after being raised for a boat. The office of the superintendent of transportation of the Lake street division reported that mechanical trouble was to blame. The bridge tender chuckled, however, and said that a relief man was being broken in for the vacation season.

Stranger Matches Pennies with 2 Others; Loses $180

With $200 and a distrust of strangers, Stanley Locke arrived yesterday from Fabius, N. Y., to enroll in a television school. But the two strangers he met as he left the bus station at Roosevelt road and Wabash avenue were so friendly that he accepted their invitation to match pennies. In a few minutes, Stanley, who's 22 years old, owed them all his $200. But they offered to settle for $180. Stanley indorsed $160 in travelers checks and gave them to the strangers, along with $20 cash. Then he told police about it.

Watchman Fires at Fleeing Prisoner; Bystander Slain

Robert Sigman, 35 years old, colored, 11328 South Ashland avenue, was accidentally shot to death last night by a watchman firing at an escaped prisoner. Sigman was about to board a street car at Indiana avenue and 48th street when James Howland, 35, also colored, of 4713 Forrestville avenue, the watchman, fired on a youth he had seized for carrying a revolver and who had broken away and fled.

FOUND DEAD IN BASEMENT.

Robert Fiedler, 54 years old, a painter, was found dead yesterday in the gas filled basement of his home at 2752 Wilson avenue.

Miss Walker will be the official hostess of the Ozark Playgrounds association.

PREDICTS RAIL STRIKE UNLESS CUT IS CANCELED

The 151,000 members of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will walk off the job rather than accept the 15 per cent wage cut ordered by the interstate commerce commission, effective July 1, Alexander F. Whitney, president of the brotherhood, asserted last night.

A. F. Whitney.

Whitney spoke before 1,000 trainmen and officers of the union from the Chicago area in the hall at 6414 South Halsted street.

"However, we are prepared to comply with the law and attempt to settle the question by mediation," he said. "We will present our case to the President's board and show who is responsible for the squandering of railroad funds. If we are turned down by the board we will walk off within 30 days thereafter."

LEGION PRESENTS FLAG TO WALSH PROJECT BUILDING

Uniformed American Legion members from six west side posts participated in a flag presentation ceremony yesterday at the Walsh Civic Project for Children, 3132 Fillmore street. A large American flag, donated by the Legion, was installed atop the building, where 260 boys and girls are enrolled in a play and study program.

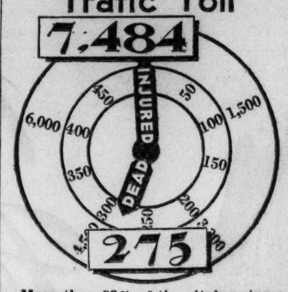
Francis D. Scully, child welfare chairman of the Illinois department of the Legion, spoke in behalf of the Legion in the presentation. Sons of legionnaires, junior Legion auxiliary members, Boy and Girl Scout troops were among those at the ceremonies.

The project was founded five years ago by Thomas Walsh, its head. An unemployed salesman then, hungry and homeless, he solicited donations in the neighborhood and raised funds to carry out his idea of a center for needy children. He now has interested the child welfare department of the American Legion in a plan to take over a twenty acre suburban plot for an enlarged project.

Verse Writer Killed; 30c Robbery Believed Cause

Worcester, Mass., June 5.—[Special.]—Beaten and choked to death, the body of Thomas F. O'Connell, 32 years old, a verse writer known locally as "the poet of Pasadena Parkway," was found today in Institute park. O'Connell had left a barroom shortly after midnight and was last seen by a companion when he tried to hitch-hike a ride to his home, more than a mile away. Police believe he was killed by robbers, disappointed because he had only 30 cents in his pockets.

THE MASSACRE Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll



More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

Driver Drowns in Puddle; 2 Escape from 15 Ft. of Water

Grants Pass, Ore., June 5.—[Special.]—This tourist center at the junction of two great highways in the last few days has seen fate play two strange tricks on motorists. The dramatic one ended happily after a car plunged 200 feet from the highway into Smith River canyon and came to rest in fifteen feet of water. The door was smashed open by the impact and the two occupants swam safely to shore. The other accident, apparently trivial, had a fatal end. George A. Truax's truck overturned, pinning him in a ditch containing four inches of water. He drowned before rescuers could lift the truck back to the road.

C. M. T. C. CLOSES ITS LISTS; QUOTA NEARLY DOUBLED

With 7,144 applications already on hand to fill the tentative quota of 4,410, Maj.-Gen. Hugh A. Drum ordered yesterday that no more applications be accepted for the Sixth Corps area Citizens Military Training camps. While Illinois' quota is 2,205, there were 3,650 applicants from the state. The training period will be from July 7 to Aug. 5, in camps at Fort Sheridan, Camp McCoy at Sparta, Wis., Camp Custer at Battle Creek, Mich., Fort Brady, Mich., and Jefferson Barracks at St. Louis, Mo.

STRUCK BY AUTO IN ASHLAND AVE., PEDESTRIAN DIES

John Purcell, 42 years old, of 4815 South Wolcott avenue, died in the Southtown hospital yesterday after being struck by an automobile at Ashland avenue and 50th street. The driver was Harry Kulczewski, 22 years old, of 5217 South Winchester avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 357 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 275 were killed in Chicago, where 7,484 were injured in the same period.

Snowball Hikes 600 Miles to Find Master in Texas

Houston, Tex., June 5.—(AP)—Snowball, a Spitz dog, found his master here today after a 600 mile trek from Odessa, Tex. Foot sore, lean, and weary the dog crawled into the yard of Walter Clack, who said he had strayed away in Odessa on March 13. Snowball's footpads were worn pink by the long journey from west Texas.

GROWING TOBACCO AS I DO—I'VE LEARNED FROM PERSONAL EXPERIENCE THAT CAMEL BUYS FINER TOBACCOS. MANY'S THE TIME THEY'VE PAID ME MORE TO GET MY FINEST LOTS. MOST OF US PLANTERS PREFER CAMELS. I'VE BEEN A STEADY CAMEL SMOKER FOR 8 YEARS NOW, AND I'LL SAY CAMEL'S CHOICE TOBACCOS SURE MAKE A LOT OF DIFFERENCE IN SMOKING

CECIL CLAYBOURNE, who knows tobacco quality as only a grower can

THERE surely is a big difference between Camels and other cigarettes—a lot more real smoking enjoyment—when men like Mr. Claybourne, who know tobacco because they grow it, say: "Most of us planters are steady Camel smokers." He gives you a convincing explanation of the difference—CAMEL'S FINER, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS.

Exodus Abroad Starts Despite Fears of War

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE annual summer exodus to foreign shores is getting off to a good start in spite of everything, including the unpleasant rumors whispered from friend to friend about Europe's unsettled condition. A letter from a veteran traveler, who cut short her European visit by six weeks, tells that every foreigner is suspected of being a spy and that never before this trip had she been stopped at every border to be questioned.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Kramer, who are sailing tomorrow from Montreal, are confining their European travels to England and Scotland. Their son, Leroy Jr., who is sailing with them, will leave them at Cherbourg to go to Paris to meet the honeymooning Peter G. Moons [Martha Carr], at whose wedding in April he was an usher. Later he will join his parents in England to sail home with them in the Queen Mary in July.

Katherine Carr Stays Abroad for Summer.

While they are away the Kramers' daughter, Mrs. Richard M. Lamport, and her baby son, and Henry Kramer, who is a student at Yale, will occupy the Kramers' summer cottage at Harbor Point, Mich. Mr. Lamport will join them on week-ends.

Miss Katherine Carr, who sailed abroad right after the wedding of her sister to Mr. Moon, is staying abroad for the summer. Her father, George R. Carr, has no plans for the hot weather months.

Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, who had expected to sail for Europe early this month, has changed her plans and will delay sailing until later in the season.

Mrs. Edward F. Carry and her granddaughter, Peggy Nicholson, are sailing June 16 in the Bremen to spend the summer abroad. Germany will be included on their itinerary. Edward Nicholson, a freshman at the University of Chicago, is staying at home this summer to take a preparatory law course. Miss Nicholson will be a junior at the Girls' Latin school in the fall.

Mrs. Carter H. Harrison Jr. and Daughter Sail.

Others traveling abroad this summer will be Mrs. Carter H. Harrison Jr., who sailed recently with one of her daughters, Caryl, a Dobbs Ferry student, to join two other daughters, Miss Edith Harrison, who is studying at the Sorbonne in Paris, and Joan, who is attending Les Fougeres in Switzerland. Miss Lucy Harrison, who motored east with her mother, is driving back with her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Cook. They will stay with Mr. Harrison at his Barrington home until the wedding of Miss Jean McWilliams to Charles D. P. Hamilton III. on June 27, after which Miss Harrison will go abroad to join her mother and sisters until autumn, when they all will return.

The senior Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison are staying at home in Chicago for most of the summer, but in August they may go to their summer home on Lake Superior for a fortnight. Mr. Harrison is recovering from a fracture of the arm, but goes to his office every day.

Mrs. Walter Paepcke to Join Her Parents.

Mrs. Walter Paepcke and Miss Lorraine Yerkes are leaving Wednesday to sail in the Columbus on Saturday for Bremen. Mrs. Paepcke will spend several weeks with her parents, Prof. William A. Nitze of the University of Chicago and Mrs. Nitze, who will spend the summer in Germany, while Miss Yerkes visits the Scandinavian countries. Mrs. Paepcke and Miss Yerkes will meet again in Berlin and then will visit Munich, Switzerland, and Paris before returning home in the Hansa, sailing July 22.

Miss Denyse Root and her grandmother, Mrs. Peter Dudley, are planning to sail on Aug. 3 to return to their home in France.

Miss Juliet Barker, who has just closed the sixth consecutive season as play-reviewer for the Chicago Drama league, is sailing in the Normandie June 15 to spend the summer studying at the Stratford Memorial theater in England.

Mrs. Ira L. Couch Visits Relatives in Omaha.

Commencement Preachers Tell Spiritual Meaning of Graduation

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Graduating members of at least three notable institutions of higher learning donned their caps and gowns yesterday and proceeded to church, where, at baccalaureate services, they heard their advancement interpreted in terms of religious faith.

At St. Ignatius church, Loyola and Glenwood avenues, 812 candidates for degrees from Loyola university heard spiritual advice from the Rev. Edward V. Daily, editorial writer of the New World, official journal of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago.

Central church, Orchestra hall, was crowded with faculty members, students, and candidates for engineering degrees from Armour Institute of Technology. The Rev. Dr. Frederick F. Shannon, pastor of Central church, preached the baccalaureate sermon. The class of 1938 is composed of 161 seniors and ten graduate engineering students. After the sermon a reception was held in honor of the class and their parents and friends by the faculty and the newly elected president of Armour, Dr. Henry T. Heald.

The eighty-first commencement exercises at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston, which will continue through Wednesday, were begun yesterday morning at First Methodist church, Evanston, with the Rev. Dr. Horace Greeley Smith, president of the seminary, preaching the baccalaureate sermon.

The Very Rev. Dr. Frederick C. Grant, president of Seabury Western Theological seminary, Evanston, gave a radio baccalaureate sermon yesterday over a nation-wide hookup. Dr. Grant, who leaves Seabury Western seminary shortly to become head of the department of New Testament studies at Union seminary, New York, told the nation's graduates that this country was never intended to be a happy hunting ground for either demagogues or dictators, adding also that there really is no such thing as a New Deal.

"For all our talk about a brave new world and the plans to put something better in the place of laws, customs, and standards of the past, let us not forget that we are not going to make a clean break and begin all over again," said Dr. Grant. "There are no gaps in history, and no revolution overwhelming a civilization ever completely wipes out the past and starts afresh. That is a wasteful process and nature does not permit it."

The University of Notre Dame conferred degrees upon 549 graduates at exercises held at Notre Dame, Ind., yesterday. Terence B. Cosgrove, Los Angeles attorney, was the commencement orator, and the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni, apostolic delegate to the United States, delivered the baccalaureate sermon.

Monmouth college alumni will make their commencement banquet at Monmouth, Ill., this evening the occasion for tributes to Prof. Luther Emerson Robinson, who is retiring as head of the English department of the college. The Rev. Harold McConnell of Pittsburgh, Pa., will be the commencement speaker when Monmouth confers degrees on a class of seventy-six tomorrow.

Presented at the World Playhouse.

THE CAST.

Thwaites	Wilfred Walter
Dr. Parker	Bromley Davenport
Policeman	H. F. Maltby

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Do you like dogs?

If you DON'T—and I can't believe it of you!—skip "To the Victor." If you do—hie with no loss of time to the World Playhouse, for on its screen is a delightfully human, completely engrossing story about a man and his dog. [And some more men and some more dogs.]

McAdam is a dour old sheep herder whose pride and treasure is Black Wull, a splendid, evil tempered sheep dog.

The hand of the sly, whisky drinking, crotchety chap is against every man and naturally every man's hand is against him. Black Wull is his life interest, though he evinces an occasional flash of kindly feeling for his pretty daughter. . . . In connection with these "flashes" it is characteristic of him that, to insure security for her, he drives her from home with cruel words. But I'll let the story explain more about this.

For two times running, Black Wull has won the championship cup at sheep herding contests. But, as the tale opens, a stranger, with a strange dog, Owd Bob, comes to live in the vicinity—a handsome young stranger who loves the pretty McAdam girl the moment he lays eyes on her; a stranger whose dog has been for many seasons an English cup winner . . .

For some time there has been consternation and fury among the herders. Scarcely a week passes but that sheep are found dead—their throats gashed by vicious teeth. Black Wull is suspected as the killer.

Following a contest in which he loses the cup to Owd Bob, the mystery of the slayings is solved. And there ensue some tremendously moving scenes.

The finale, however, draws a chuckle, for, though nobody thereabout wots it, Old McAdam knows summat—well—!

Mr. Fyffe gives a great characterization. He is of the Charles Laughton school; a seasoned and brilliant actor. His McAdam is a scalawag, far from pure and the reverse of simple, but your sneaking liking for the old reprobate never flags.

John Loder is skilful and likable as David. You will probably remember having seen him in "Little Women," "The Scarlet Empress," and "The Little Colonel."

Margaret Lockwood, a newcomer to our screens, is charming. I suspect that Hollywood will be plying her with offers. The supporting cast is a dandy. And those DOGS!

Lovely Scottish backgrounds and quaint settings prove a rich enhancement to the narrative—and you'll enjoy the burr—rr—rr's—once you get used to them.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

The Week's Wash

Hollywood, Cal., June 5.—The Clark Gables will have the final papers in December. So Carole Lombard and Clark may say "I do" on Christmas day. . . . Kay Francis washes up her Warner contract Sept. 12 and will wed Baron Barnekow immediately thereafter. After the honeymoon, she says she will do a picture in London. . . . The Myron Selznick office is holding out for more dough for their Errol Flynn, as the result of "Robin Hood" grosses. . . . "Alexander's Ragtime Band" will be released nationally second week in August. . . . Father Flannagan was telling Spencer Tracy and Norman Taurog of the severest penalty he metes out to offenders in "Boys Town." He stands them with their backs to the screen throughout an entire motion picture. That would be no punishment at some pictures I have had to look at. . . . Jean Acker, the ex-Mrs. Rudolph Valentino, with Peter Wills. . . . Tim Durant with Paulette Goddard. . . . Ken Murray with Shirley Ross. . . . Shirley Ross with Ken Dolan. . . . Ken Murray with Rochelle Hudson. . . . Wish they'd make up their minds.

Carole Lombard.

Two word review of "Blockade," no likee. . . . Katharine Hepburn's "Holiday" is doing better than average business in Los Angeles, $40,000 for two weeks. . . . Biggest yell of the celluloid week was the 4 year old prodigy, interviewed by Lowell Thomas, reciting Paul Revere's ride. . . . President Roosevelt gets 90 per cent applause from coast movie audiences, 10 per cent heckling. . . . Maude Adams will rate 100 G's for her flicker. . . . Olivia De Havilland on the rear seat of William Wyler's motor scooter. . . . The Charlie Corrells' [Amos 'n' Andy] baby will arrive in January. . . . Louise Stanley and Addison Randall cooing. . . . The day is done when tenors and sopranos hopped out of cinema ambush and sang a song at you, for no reason. Twentieth Century-Fox hereafter will use only songs that advance the action of a picture. "Hold That Co-Ed" will have just three tunes.

Major studio exec., urging W. C. Fields to sign for a single picture, said: "The American public is clamoring for you, Bill." "The noise you hear, sir, is mice," said Fields. . . . Opening night ducats to Helen Hayes' "Victoria Regina" are peddling at $50 a pair. . . . Gordon and Revel vacationing at Atlantic City, will pen five tunes for Zanuck and try 'em out on Anatole Friedland. . . . Eddie Cantor's twenty-fourth wedding anniversary Thursday. . . . Frances Farmer gets in on the 22d. . . . Robert Osborne squiring Alice Brady. . . . Don't be surprised if the Bill Wilkersons, now that they're divorced, are remarried. . . . Danny Winkler with Jean Rogers, blonde and pretty, at the Brown Derby. . . . Cary Grant and Phyllis Brooks are making up for lost time. . . . The illegitimate child theme of "Boy Meets Girl" has been worked out satisfactorily. In the picture the girl discovers the father is a bigamist, so the illegitimate child becomes respectable. What will they think of next?

For winning the California heavyweight championship from Nova, Maxie Rosenbloom netted $284. No wonder he prefers acting. . . . Rosemary Lane's real heart is Bob Williams, in the New York Warner office . . . Toni Lanier and Eddie Mannix supping at Lamaze's. She used to be Johnny Weissmuller's honeybunch. . . . The Max Reinhardts were visiting the Paul Munis' Palos Verdes estate. Muni took a crowd of guests out to the pool to show them a magnificent Pacific sunset, and one of the hecklers murmured: "God is showing off in front of Reinhardt."

Muni, incidentally, has nixed the script of Hilton's "We Are Not Alone" and has not yet seen the script of "Maximilian." . . . Cesar Romero and Sonja Henie on thin ice. . . . Cy Bartlett and Judy Ford have kissed and made up. . . . Recommended: Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette," the best thing she's ever done. . . . Franchot Tone and Robert Montgomery in a serious huddle at the Troc. . . . Louise Brooks and Howard Shoup still at it. Ditto Queenie Smith and Brad Ropes. . . . Robert Galer, here to fit Charlie McCarthy with a straw hat, seeing the town with Sally Martin. . . . Loretta Young, during the "Three Blind Mice" preview, laughing most at David Niven and Binnie Barnes, Binnie and Lew Ayres an item? . . . Studio filled with visiting Shriners.

Norma Shearer.

Dave Apollon and Maxine Lewis at Victor Hugo's. . . . Broderick Crawford and Rita Johnson at House of Murphy. . . . Anita Louise and Buddy Adler again ablaze, as prophesied in this space. Ain't he the smarty? . . . Director Red Golden introducing a Miss Day as his fiancée. . . . Madge Evans back with Tom Gallery, who is a very nice guy, mom. . . . No wonder Louis B. Mayer's dancing partners get droppy knees: The Troc plays five tunes in his medley. . . . M.-G.-M. is offering Warner's $220,000 for "Desert Song" for MacDonald-Eddy. . . . Pat O'Brien cut short his Broadway vacation because Mavourneen was ill. . . . Universal sneak-previewed "Rage of Paris" Saturday and the reaction cards were raves.

Song Writers Note: Gingham Is Stylish Again

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Gingham clad charmers are promised for both town and country life. Prim, simple outfits tailored with the expert nicety of a man's shirt will go to town, stay crisp, cool and amazingly fresh through the most wilting day in an office. Short sleeves, skirts that look slim as a pencil, concealing the necessary plaits for action, and details such as tabs, pockets, bands of the same material, and wisps of white mark them as the crop of 1938.

Gingham suits, really two piece dresses, are slick ideas for the commuter. Gingham house dresses can be used for play suits as most of them are made with a short jacket and shirt underlayer plus the inevitable detachable skirt. Gingham slacks as smart kitchenette outfits are still other possibilities.

By the yard, the various colors and patterns are bewilderingly plentiful. Small and large checks in every imaginable color can be cooled off with white organdy. Gingham is especially good fashion for all those clever shoppers who make their own. Yellow, green, red, and all shades of blue smartly crossed with white make eye appealing frocks for a summer day. The stuff washes well.

New 3-thread version of the original "Inside out" stockings

They're knitted in the same way . . . on the reverse side . . . to give them the dull flattering look that has made Rograins famous. Knitted by the same special process to eliminate ankle streaks and produce sheer, clear flattery. And they're priced this week much below what they will regularly be marked.

SYNOPSIS.

Elizabeth Sandal is shocked to find her children, Dorothea and Oliver, resent their father's will that unexpectedly left a fortune to her and did not mention them. She goes off to Switzerland for a change and rest, and meets Andrew Leicester, who was a groom at her wedding. Andrew, a widower, is returning after years of absence in the east to meet his children. William, his son, lives with a bachelor relative; his daughter, Shirley, with his wife's relatives. Shirley was in an airplane accident with a young pilot, Tony Voisin, after which Tony's engagement to another girl was broken. Her mother's people blame Shirley. Andrew hopes to have it out with Shirley before seeing his in-laws. Shirley believes he is aligned with her hated relatives and treats him coolly. Andrew turns to Elizabeth for sympathy. She tries to make friends with the boy and girl. Oliver visits his mother and lingers to fall in love with Shirley. Through a friend he tries to reach Tony Voisin to have him explain things to her father.

INSTALMENT XXXI.

A CONFESSION.

"I may be called to the telephone," mentioned Oliver at dinner "fellow named Henderson for whom I have an urgent message."

The summons did not come and later in the evening Andrew, having gone for cigarets, returned to Elizabeth with a piece of news.

"I wonder what the little game is," he said. "I met the pair of them coming out of the office. The telephone call must have interrupted the dancing, and from the appearance of the young lady there is devilment afoot. She is looking far too pleased."

"That should be a nice change," she consoled him.

"I gave her her allowance tonight and almost had an altercation over that. She has never asked for it, but seemed to resent my not producing it before. I hope she is not obtaining help from Oliver to give me the slip after trailing me about for weeks."

"Oliver wouldn't do it," declared Elizabeth.

"Are you sure? Can one ever be sure? I shouldn't like to swear what I might not have done at that age for a pretty girl with a persuasive tongue," said Andrew. "What does he know of her?"

"And what do we? Leave it to me," she said. "I'll speak to Oliver when he comes to say good night."

Oliver chose that evening to unburden himself of the memorandum he had found, but it was not an easy subject to tackle, and for a little while he roamed about his mother's room, giving her an opportunity therefore to ask about his telephone call.

"You were my children. What do you suppose money meant to me—"

"Did you get through to your friend? Who did you say it was?"

"Henderson. You remember Hendy?"

"Does Shirley know him then, that she went with you?"

Her son looked at her oddly.

"What are you getting at, mother? Certainly she doesn't know the man. Why shouldn't she come with me? If I am suspected of kissing her behind the office door, I can tell you I would like a shot if I dared."

His mother laughed.

"I don't blame you," she said, "I only want to be sure you are not mixing yourself up in some little game of hers with all this telephoning. Perhaps I shouldn't blame you for that either in different circumstances, but she's so lovely and very young. In strict confidence, Oliver, Shirley is being evasive to her father and he doesn't know why. They are almost strangers, remember, and it makes him rather anxious."

Oliver seemed amused.

"I shouldn't think he has any reason to worry," he said. "She's not what I should call skittish if that's what he imagines, poor old gentleman. A bit archaic, isn't he?"

Elizabeth, indignant at his patronizing tone, said dryly:

"I suppose you will grow out of this fixed belief that every one over thirty is necessarily an imbecile."

"Isn't it imbecile to spy as the fellow did this morning, as if we were a set of kids in the nursery?" challenged Oliver.

"Bless you, that wasn't spying. Andrew thought it such bad management . . . the porter had volunteered the information . . . and he was joking. You poor young things are so solemn and lacking in humor."

"Good God! Humor? Trying to be breezy, as he would call it no doubt. Dam' painful," declared Oliver.

Elizabeth was torn between indignation, a natural desire to defend her own generation and the knowledge that to some extent he was right. In his daughter's presence Andrew always struck the wrong note.

"Your favorite preoccupation, Oliver."

"No really. I give you my word . . . I am not after the swag."

"It is not a question I could ask him," she protested. "He must be comfortably off to retire so soon with two expensive children on his hands."

"By the way," Oliver began, "I came across something at home that may need attention. I have a confession to make too, and I hope you are not going to be upset. That tobacco jar of father's—I'm afraid I broke it."

"What tobacco jar? The one in your father's room?" she exclaimed.

"Yes, the lid had stuck and I dropped the thing. I could have kicked myself. This memorandum was in it."

So he had been searching the house, and believed that breaking anything it contained could hurt her more than that. She heard herself saying: "What was it you found?"

"It seems to be a note of a debt that may for all I know be still owing against the estate," he said. "A large sum too, over £3,000."

"Let me see it," said his mother.

"Well, you won't understand it, you know," he told her kindly, "but I'll explain it as simply as I can." "You see the heading, 'Debt to B.' . . . You don't, I imagine, know who or what B may be?"

Elizabeth coolly took the paper in her hands, reading it through, unheeding his explanation of the sums under interest.

"Be quiet, my dear. I haven't forgotten simple arithmetic. Just let me get to the end!" she exclaimed.

Oliver complied, but when she lowered the paper began his instructions again.

"The point is you know there is nothing simple about it. Only a madman would borrow on such conditions and a greater madman lend it."

Elizabeth had folded the paper and put it away in the pocket of her dressing gown, and seeing this, he broke off and held out his hand for it, saying:

"Madness or not, it has got to be looked into, you know, mother. What on earth is up? You are not going to faint, are you?"

"I am not ill," she said, "merely almost too angry to speak. In one breath you call your father a madman and in the next suggest I am a thief. How dare you!"

"Mother darling, don't. All I meant was that it was not just a piece of paper to be thrown away. How could you know?"

"My money, the little private capital I had which we were obliged to realize when times were difficult after the war. It was no debt though your father chose to regard it so, evidently."

"Well, of course . . . quite naturally . . . your money never should have been touched," said Oliver.

"Don't talk of things you don't understand," commanded his mother, getting up. "Would you have liked to live in a slum on bread and margarine and go to a board school? Would Dorothea? You were my children. What do you suppose money meant to me except for you?"

"I never dreamed things were ever as bad as that," said Oliver in eager self-defense.

"You were never meant to know," she cried. "You never would have known if you hadn't—"

She broke off and turned away, but he caught her by the shoulders and held her fast.

"Go on. Say it. Searched the house, isn't that it? You do make me feel a hound."

"Hound? You are not even big enough for that." But she laughed rather brokenly and laid her face against his shoulder. "What do you know of necessity or what money really is?"

"Still I hope he paid you back," he said.

"Pay me back indeed? O you men! The things you take for granted and the fuss you make about trifles," she cried. "Pay me back! Leave me, that's a good boy, and let me get to bed. Perhaps I'll tell you all about the family struggles some time if you want to know, but not tonight. It's all to near."

He kissed her and went.

WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Quite a Difference

Meringues for Pie Require Detailed Care

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Meringues always are a problem to cooks. Pie toppings cause the most trouble, chiefly, I believe, because pie meringues are used more often than other meringues. The complaint may be that the meringue shrinks and becomes watery, or that it is tough and pulls away from the top of the pie when cut. There are other difficulties, too, such as sugar spotting and flatness of surface.

There are four types of meringue: [1] the soft meringue used mostly for pie topping; [2] the hard meringue used for desserts or bases for desserts; [3] the Italian meringue, made by pouring hot sirup over beaten egg whites, used as a basis for sherbets and ice creams; and [4] frostings which are made like Italian meringues except that a large amount of sugar is used. Divinity fudge and some other candies are made with a meringue base of this type.

The difference in baking soft and hard meringues is marked. A soft meringue is baked at a moderate temperature so that it will not dry out, but since we want a hard meringue to dry out, a lower temperature, from 275 to 300 degrees, is used.

Let's forget for present purposes about all except the most common pie meringue.

STEPS IN MAKING A SOFT MERINGUE [PIE TOPPING].

1. Have egg whites at room temperature before beating. Two or three whites are used for one pie.

2. Add salt and flavoring. If it is used, to whites before beating. Measure out two tablespoons sugar for each egg white used and set aside until needed.

3. Beat egg whites, salt, and flavoring [one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon flavoring for three whites] to a stiff foam.

4. Add sugar in one tablespoon portions, beating after each addition. When the last sugar is added beat until the mixture piles well and all sugar is dissolved.

5. Spread meringue on pie, starting at edges and making sure that it is firmly attached to the edge of the crust, since this figures in preventing wateriness. Empty the remainder from the bowl and spread with a few broad strokes over the pie.

6. Bake at 350 degrees until well browned.

7. To cut easily, butter the knife or wipe with a damp cloth.

A rather finely granulated sugar is the best type to use. Powdered or confectioners' sugars will dissolve more readily, but they have a marked tendency to decrease the volume. They are better for icings and other types of meringue.

Shrinkage is greatest in a pie topping baked in a slow oven. The cutting quality is objectionable because of drying out of the surface. A slow baked pie meringue is likely to be tough, also.

On the other hand, a pie meringue baked at a high temperature browns too readily on the surface. A high temperature must be used for Baked Alaska, of course, since the idea is to brown the meringue as quickly as possible before the heat can penetrate to the ice cream beneath. But for general purposes a temperature of 350 degrees has been found most satisfactory.

For those who fancy Chinese and Japanese cookery, Mary Meade has written "Oriental Dishes from American Kitchens." The booklet sells for 2 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, or will be mailed for 3 cents in stamps. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

Presbyterian Hospital.

The Housewife

It's the time of year when the housewife's husband and children want fresh strawberry ice cream. A new type of freezer will turn out ice cream in short order, and this freezer is gearless and easy to work.

It comes in a metal, not a wooden tub, so it's light weight and easy to clean. In a two quart size in a bright, galvanized finish, it is turned by a handle at the top, instead of by a crank at the side. And it's so inexpensive that we had to look twice at the price tag to be sure we were right.

Open Presbyterian Hospital Reunion at Luncheon Today

More than 150 of the Presbyterian hospital's 625 living former interns and resident physicians today will attend a reunion luncheon at the hospital and a dinner at the Bismarck hotel in the evening.

The reunion will be held in conjunction with a two-day clinic sponsored by the Rush Medical College Alumni association and culminating in an alumni banquet Tuesday evening at the Drake hotel. For many years Rush students trained solely at Presbyterian, which then accepted only Rush graduates for internship.

Concert Links Brahms Work and Novelties

BY EDWARD BARRY.

The moderate sized audience which sought refuge from sun and summer yesterday in the shadowy Great Northern theater was offered two features of special interest as rewards for its judgment. The first was the performance of a large sized standard work by Izler Solomon and the Illinois Symphony orchestra [who usually, in combination, direct their efforts almost exclusively toward novelties and near novelties]. The second was a presentation by the Lyric ensemble and the orchestra of four seldom or never heard choral pieces of Gustav Holst.

The Brahms D major symphony, as performed by yesterday's forces, rates as an excellent conception and a fair piece of execution. Mr. Solomon's molding of the symphony's marvelously plastic material into shapes of considerable beauty was foiled of its effect occasionally by the orchestra's lack of full ability to follow his ideas through to their logical conclusion. Especially was this true of the first movement.

The Lyric ensemble, a woman's group mustering twelve or thirteen and ably directed by Helen Leefeldt, performed Holst settings of hymns from the "Rig Veda" [a Hindu sacred scripture] with reasonable accuracy and with a purity and austerity of tone which matched the character of the music.

The second season of the Beaux Arts salon came to an end yesterday with the presentation in the formal lounge of the Medinah club of Lilyan Cole, soprano, and Leonardo Amaresco, tenor.

The former sang operatic and concert music in a remarkably agile manner, but without the proper vocal finish and with too little care for variety of meter and of tone quality.

In Mr. Amaresco's case a voice of exquisite texture is consistently driven much too hard, so that suavity of delivery and beauty of tone too often disappear. And he mars his singing with gestures.

SALVI SHOWS HARP'S POWER

BY CECIL SMITH.

Frida Savini, soprano, and Alberto Salvi, harpist, shared a recital in the cheerful Woman's Club theater last evening. The two artists appeared alternately throughout most of the program and pooled their talents in a single group of songs with harp accompaniment. Alexander Aster played Miss Savini's piano accompaniments.

Mr. Salvi combines the mastery of a true virtuoso with the warm temperament of a Latin musician of the first rank. For any one who thinks the harp an instrument of limited emotional potentialities, the intensity and dynamic force with which Mr. Salvi builds climaxes and the eloquence with which he pursues the progress of a melodic line will quickly lay to rest so faulty an impression. It is not the harp that is at fault, but the way most harpists play it.

Miss Savini would be an excellent artist if her vocal control were sufficient to realize her musical intentions. The serenity which underlay her conception of the first portion of Agatha's prayer from Weber's "Der Freischütz" and the splendid accentuation of its agitated close bore witness to an unusually sound musical instinct. Her naturally expressive voice, however, suffers from continual wavering and flickering, because of insecure muscular support.

At the Fourth Presbyterian church last evening the choir's annual spring choral service continued the lofty musical standard established for the church by Eric DeLamarter and now continued by Barrett Spach, the present organist and choir director. The program was built entirely of musical settings of various psalms, including one representative work from each century from the sixteenth to the nineteenth, and two from the twentieth. Under Mr. Spach the choir sang flexibly and with appropriate variety of style. Winfred Stracke, bass, gave musicianly voice to important solos in Purcell's "68th Psalm" and Bach's "Thou Guide of Israel" [Psalm 80]. Robert Kee, guest organist, played Ruebke's "94th Psalm" brilliantly.

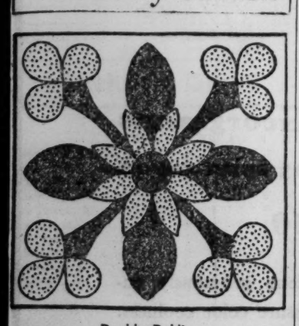
"Double Dahlia" Quilt Inspired by a Lovely Garden



Double Dahlia.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Double Dahlia" is not modern in motif, yet it was created in a busy, hustling world 25 years ago. Inspired by the rich beauty of the double dahlias growing in her front garden, an avid quiltmaker from the southern part of Illinois produced a design which has been popular since the day of its presentation. The 16 inch square is set together with four inch bands of white, and finished with a six inch white border and a one-half inch bias binding. The overall dimensions are 88 by 103.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Before a defender can intelligently follow the rule to "lead up to weakness," he must have a clear idea of just what constitutes "weakness." Actually, in its bridge sense, the word is not as easy to define as is generally imagined.

The bidding:

South.	West.	North.	East.
Pass	Pass	1 club	Pass
2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

West did not like the idea of opening a club after the suit had been bid on his left and chose, instead, to lead the spade jack. Declarer won in his own hand and led the low heart to dummy's king. East won and returned the three of clubs, thus succeeding remarkably in making two errors in one play. First, he should not have led a club at all. With five spades in his hand, one sure heart entry, and a reasonable chance of a diamond entry, East should have concentrated on the suit his partner had providentially opened. Dummy's club suit, although headed by only the jack, was not really "weakness," under the circumstances. East himself had only two low clubs. What club combination could West have that would make a club lead desirable? Even if he had as good as the A Q x x x, dummy still would have two club stoppers, and surely it was a bit thick to hope for a better club holding in West's hand. Thus, while under certain circumstances dummy's club suit might be considered weakness and strongly invite attack, the fact that East could offer no coöperation in this attack should have deterred him from breaking the suit. But, not only did East return the wrong suit, he also confused West fatally by leading the lower card of his doubleton. We shall see what effect this had.

Declarer won the club return with the ace and led a low diamond toward the king. West now had entirely the wrong conception of the hand. It looked to him as though declarer had several heart tricks and possibly three spade tricks [two were in sight.] I am not condoning West's decision to put up the diamond ace and return a low club, but the fact remains that East's line of defense had made matters obscure. After West put up the diamond ace, the defenders did not do so well. Declarer won the club return and led a diamond to the king, dropping East's queen. A heart then was led from dummy. East put up the queen and returned a low heart. Declarer, after much thought, finessed against the ten spot and, when his nine held, cashed the jack, discarding a club from dummy. Two spade tricks then put West into a horrible squeeze. He could not keep his guarded diamond nine and also keep the club queen. Whichever suit he chose to discard, declarer had the rest of the tricks.

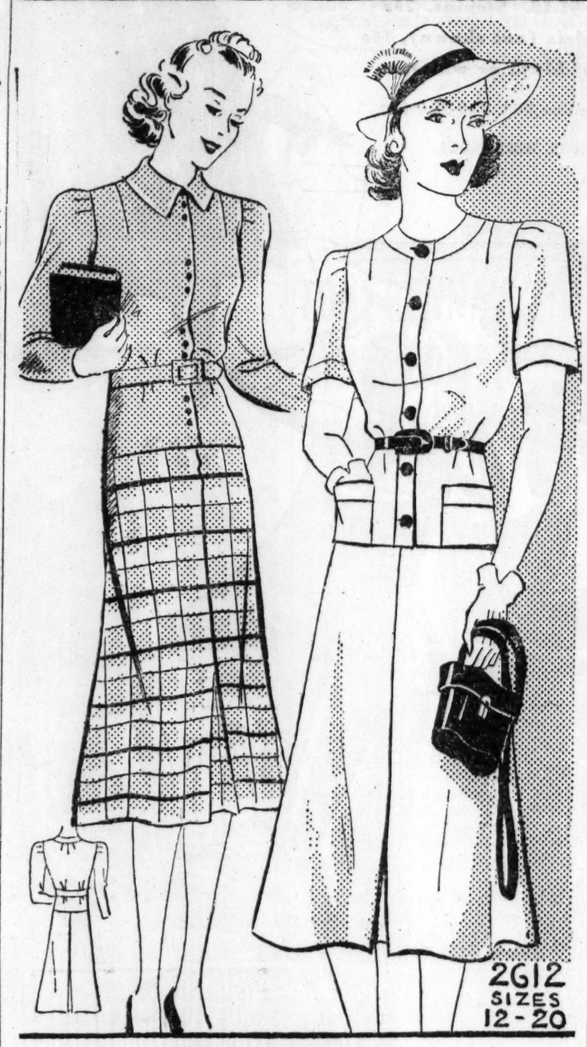
Frock with Cardigan Styling



WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

For years women have known and enjoyed the comfort afforded by cardigan sweaters. The informal lines grant casual chic and a loose fit, especially welcome during warm weather. We've incorporated these cardigan lines in the frock illustrated today. The round neckline is left collarless, the band around it being part and parcel of that running down the front closing. The rather full sleeves have bands, too, and the blouse has two pockets near the hemline. The narrow lether belt matches the buttons in color, and both should contrast. The skirt has an inverted plait in both front and back, assuring plenty of width for walking and active sports. This dress is just as smart for spectator wear, too, of course.

Style No. 2612 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inch bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material.

Parents Worry When Baby Is Slow to Speak

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"My little boy is 2 and doesn't talk. What can be done?"

"My little girl is 3 and doesn't talk. Why do you believe that is? She is healthy and normal."

These are only two of many question that come to me about little children who are slow in talking or who do not talk at all.

A few definite reasons for slowness in learning to talk have been found and some have been surmised. Of the first [the definite ones that are provable] some are physical. Of the second group [those that are surmised] some are emotional.

Let us start today by pinning down the few physical available facts that account for a little child's retarded speech:

[a] Premature babies and twins [or other multiple births] usually show speech retardation, coming eventually to full powers.

[b] Deafness, so often unsuspected for years in a young child, accounts for many cases of delayed speech—and then poor speech when it does begin [unless measures are taken to help].

[c] Imperfect speech organs, of course, impede speech. For instance, I have known of operations for what is commonly called "harelip" and attendant malformations so exquisitely performed that nothing physical or in speech indicated the defect.

In the first cause of speech difficulty listed we have to wait for time to mature the baby. In the second conditions must be made favorable for the deaf child to hear so that he has a speech pattern to follow. In the third, expert medical advice should be sought at the earliest possible moment.

This talk on speech will be continued tomorrow.

Girl Courted 5 Years Is Entitled to Definite Marriage Agreement

BY DORIS BLAKE.

He's been hanging around for five years now, acting the part of steady suitor. Her family and friends keep on wondering why there is no marriage in sight. So she broached the subject to the gentleman one evening recently and he told her that he could not marry now for financial reasons. In fact, he added, he did not believe he ever would marry.

There is another young man in the background, waiting patiently for a chance to prove his worth as a matrimonial partner. Yet, the girl, who, after five years of waiting, is told there never may be a marriage, is still willing to hang on, hoping.

That is love, probably! Or habit! Or, maybe both! But "hoping" is not our recommendation. Action, we'd urge. A very definite decision one way or the other and no fooling. After five years' monopoly of her time a young woman has the right to know how her waiting is going to end.

But that's the trouble with long engagements. The longer marriage is postponed the greater is the danger that it will never materialize.

However, if the woman wants the man who postpones the marriage day, and wants him more than any other candidate for her hand, she'd better make a bold move.

These Beauty Hints Offered by a Mere Man

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The men nowadays certainly are turning out to be our severest critics. It isn't out of the mouths of dandies, either, that devastating criticisms come. Fancy one whose current job is bossing a gang of street workers commenting on the way women don't powder the sides and backs of the neck! This instance, however, was an obvious difference in skin tint at front and side.

However, the same strong but not silent brother volunteered his observation that elephants wear gray, and why do large women ever commit the crime? There being grays and grays, perhaps this is an unfair comment. Besides, gray as a color for any woman happens to be this man's pet peeve. But it shows that men are not missing much when it comes to tabulating womankind.

Another member of the sex that declaims every now and then that a woman's eyes are her first noted feature and most powerful asset held forth on the new shades of stockings rampant on our streets right now. Why do all the women with fat legs insist upon wearing them? he asked. All the women with plump underpinnings don't wear the bright shades. It just seems that way some days.

Of course, the men all aren't out with hammers. One, sitting at a ringside table, volunteered that what makes the gorgeous woman gorgeous, from his point of view, is the neatness of her hair.

"I don't give a darn what kind of dress a woman has on. She looks as good to me as her hair looks good to me!" That we call an intelligent estimate. No woman really does look better than the neat arrangement of her hair. But women realize this perfectly themselves. Time and again you have said, and I have said, on catching an unexpected reflection passing a mirror, "What a mess!" It doesn't matter what we have on. If the hair is untidy and hanging down with uncurled ends, down we go a good many points in our own estimation.

It would be impossible for the men to escape all the attention that is directed at double chins, if they read ads at all, or if they're around women and hear talk. So, if one of them says, "Susie's doubling up on us a bit," as one was heard to comment, it won't be long before they get around to crow's feet. All of which means that the day for letting down and taking your beauty life easy gets farther and farther away, yes?

How to balance lip lines, fatten thin cheeks, tint eyelids, and shadow undesirable contours of the face, are among the many beauty hints in "Makeup Magic," a booklet by Antoinette Donnelly, Tribune beauty editor. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Daughters of Zion Rally.

The final rally of the 24 auxiliaries of the Daughters of Zion Infant Home and Day nursery in their building fund drive will be held this evening at the Hotel Sherman.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Most complexion-care inquiries that we receive are about skin dryness but some of our readers remind us once in a while that there is such a thing as oily skin, even in this dry skin area.

Oily skin has a naughty trick of getting even oilier in warm weather; many oily skinned sufferers have more blackheads in summer than they do in winter.

The solution of the problem is vigilance. The skin must be kept exquisitely clean; there can be nothing casual about the routine of its care. Personally, we believe in lots of soap and water—not strong soap. Oily skin must be cleansed so very much oftener than dry skin that a bland, nonirritating soap is the only one to use. And we are a firm believer in the use of the complexion brush. It provides a sort of "local exercise" that helps normalize the function of the oil glands. It also insures greater cleanliness. If possible it should be used daily, preferably for the nightly scrubbing. If this doesn't work, find out by experimenting how often it can be used without irritation. Maybe you'll have to scale it down to three or four brush rubbings a week. But use the brush by all means if the skin is the kind that breaks out in little black dots.

Astringents and tonics help considerably in slowing down the flow of excess oil. Makeup should be light. The oily skinned woman should be particularly careful not to rub powder into the skin; dust it on generously, then brush it or smooth it down evenly. She must be twice as careful as her dry skinned sister about clean puffs. The ideal state would be to use no puff more than once or twice. And she should refresh her makeup a couple of times a day—preferably using cleansing lotions.

CUBS WHIP PHILS, 7-1; LEAD LEAGUE; SOX SPLIT

CARLETON AND O'DEA CONDUCT VICTORY MARCH

Reds Lend Hand by Beating Giants.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs moved into first place yesterday and were so pleased with the atmosphere that they are considering leasing it for the season. They helped themselves into the National league lead for the first time by bowling over the Phillies, 7 to 1. Some outside assistance, of course, came from Cincinnati where the Reds hung another defeat on the champion New York Giants.

The Phils bowed to the Cubs only after exhausting their stubbornness. That lasted for three innings. In the fourth the new league leaders let go with a three run blast in which Hugh Mulcahy was the victim. That wasn't sufficient to convince the budding youngster that he had taken enough for one day, so the Cubs thumped him again in the seventh, four more runs scoring and Mulcahy going to more peaceful surroundings.

Battery Takes Charge.

The Phils found a double tormentor in Tex Carleton, who now owns six victories even though his recent luck has been all bad. Carleton took care of his pitching by surrendering only eight hits, all of which were crowded into three innings, four of them in the sixth when the Phils scored. The gaunt Texan also served as a hitter. He peeled off a double which drove in two of the three runs scored in the fourth and inaugurated the four run seventh with a single.

Ken O'Dea, performing in the place of the injured Gabby Hartnett, also provided a needed punch, as well as suitable amusement for 17,311 spectators. He hammered a double into left in the second inning and the only reason it didn't drive home a run was because it produced the first of two spectacular plays by Tuck Stainback. All O'Dea could contribute to the fourth inning affair was three strikes, but he made amends. He stepped up in the seventh with the bases filled and cleaned 'em up with another double.

Open Drive May 18.

The Cubs' climb to the top dates from the afternoon of May 18 at New York when the combined efforts of Larry French and Charley Root beat the Giants, 3 to 2. The day previous the champions had whipped the Cubs in the series opener, thereby gaining a six and one-half game lead over the Chicagoans. In the final game at New York Bill Lee started his winning streak with that 1 to 0 ten inning struggle, and since then dividends have piled up faster than the national debt.

From New York the Cubs went to Philadelphia and won two games. At Boston they were able to get only an even break in two battles. They won the only two played at Brooklyn, making a record of seven victories and two defeats for the eastern portion of the trip. Stopping off at Pittsburgh on their way home they won two out of three. Since getting back to Wrigley field they have split a pair with the Reds and the Bees, and followed with two straight over the Phils.

An Old Cub Cuts Up.

The Cubs earned a run in the second inning but didn't get it because of a sparkling play by Stainback. Demaree led off with a single to right—the first hit of the game. O'Dea slammed a double to left, and Stainback, sprinting toward the foul line, cut off the ball and fired it back toward the infield, holding Demaree at third. Marty rolled to Stein, and in one of those trick rundown plays

BEAT A'S, 8 TO 2, TO END STREAK; THEN LOSE, 7-6

Stratton Turns In Six Hit Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., June 5.—The White Sox this afternoon ended that ten game losing streak when Monty Stratton presided at a six hit affair against the Athletics, Chicago winning 8 to 2 in the first game of a doubleheader. They had a relapse in the second game after Johnny Whitehead enjoyed a 4 to 1 lead. They lost this 7 to 6, the end coming with the tying run on third after Marv Owen had tripled with two on and two out in the ninth.

The Sox were right sprightly in the first contest and in the second, too, until Whitehead wilted for his first defeat of the season, after the first two batsmen were retired in the seventh. Large John walked Pitcher Lynn Nelson, pitched a single to Wally Moses, a triple to Dick Siebert, his seventh hit of the afternoon, and a single to Bill Werber. That gave the A's a 5 to 4 lead, which was augmented against Johnny Rigney in the eighth when Bob Johnson and Sam Chapman, the first two batsmen, slammed out homers. The outcome gave Lynn Nelson, former Cub, a record of five victories to one defeat.

Here's the Sad Story.

With the first game victory all true Sox fans perhaps were more than willing to forget the ten game losing streak. But just for your record books we'll set down the wicked chain which was broken today: The Sox lost the final of the A's series in Chicago May 26, 4 to 1. Then followed 5 to 2, 9 to 1, and 2 to 1 setbacks at the hands of the Tigers in Comiskey park. Memorial day brought 5 to 2 and 8 to 1 defeats in Cleveland, which were followed by 5 to 4, 6 to 2, and 6 to 3 defeats in Washington and the 9 to 4 burning here yesterday.

Stratton was in superb form, except when pitching to Dick Siebert, who made four of the six hits which Monty gave up. Dick scored one of the A's pair of runs after doubling in the fourth inning and he drove in Moses, who had tripled, in the sixth. In addition to his bang up pitching performance, Monty banged out three hits, two singles and a double. His first single was the only hit registered in the four run foray the Sox precipitated in the third.

FIRST GAME

The White Sox, who made four runs on fifteen hits in the opener here yesterday, made four runs in the third inning of the first game today on a total of one infield single. Sewell walked and Stratton singled off Ambler's glove. Berger walked, loading the bases, whereupon Owen shot a blistering liner straight at Lodigiani. Lodigiani may have peeped around to figure a triple play or Owen's effort might just have been too hot. At any rate the ball caromed off Lodigiani's glove and was scored as an error, Sewell and Stratton going home and Berger reaching third. The bases were loaded again after Steinbacher drew a pass. Kreevich forced Steinbacher, Berger scoring and Owen stopping at third. Kreevich and Owen tried to put on a double steal. Kreevich broke from first while Smith had the ball on the mound. Mike was out, Smith to Ambler, but Owen got home before Ambler could relay the ball to the plate. Smith then tossed out Radcliff.

Athletics Score in Fourth.

The Sox battery made a bid for another run in the fourth, but failed at the plate. With two out Sewell got his second pass and Stratton lined a double to the wall in left center. Luke tried to score from first, but seemed to be running up hill passing second and was an easy out at the plate, Johnson to Ambler to Brucker.

The A's broke into the scoring column in the fourth on Siebert's double and a single by Brucker.

Two were out in the fifth when Steinbacher executed what had become an almost extinct breed of hit, a Sox homer. Hank knocked the ball over the fence, the first such smack for the Sox since the last prelosing streak victory, against the A's in Chicago on May 25, when Walker, Radcliff and Kreevich connected.

Walker rang up the sixth Sox run in the sixth inning. Gee walked with one down, went to second on Hayes' out, to third on a wild pitch, and scored on Sewell's hit to Werber. Stratton popped to Smith.

Moses Gets a Triple.

Moses tripled with one out in the home sixth and scored on a single by Siebert, the latter's third straight hit and the fifth for the A's in the game.

Berger walked at the start of the seventh and Owen was safe on Werber's fumble. Steinbacher singled to center, scoring Berger and putting Owen on third. Owen scored while Steinbacher and Kreevich were going

Leonard [Buzz] Mendenhall, 31 years old, of Detroit, died in St. Margaret's hospital in Hammond yesterday of a broken neck and brain concussion received while driving in the first qualifying trial of the automobile races at the Hammond speedway.

It was Mendenhall's first appearance on the banked track and he had driven only a quarter of a lap when he lost control of his car on the fifteen foot south bank. The machine turned over three times and came to a halt right side up.

Mendenhall made an effort to free himself when the car started spinning, but couldn't loosen his safety belt in time.

Jimmy Wilburn, west coast driver, won the twenty-five mile feature event, taking the lead at the start and holding it to the finish. Everett Rice was second and Mike Saley third. The time was 13:49. Summaries:

FIRST RACE [TEN LAPS]—Won by Jimmy Wilburn; Mike Saley, second; Elbert Booker, third. Time, 5:15.

SECOND RACE [TEN LAPS]—Won by Everett Rice; Charles Secendzy, second; Petri Alberti, third. Time, 5:25.

THIRD RACE [TEN LAPS]—Won by Cecil Burnaugh; Frank Weirer, second; Charles Callahan, third. Time, 5:28.

GARDNER WINS FOUR

Milwaukee, Wis., June 5.—(AP)—Chet Gardner of Long Beach, Cal., won four of six automobile races on the mile dirt track of the West Allis, Wis., state fair grounds today before a crowd of 16,974.

Gardner won the feature event, the twenty-five mile, in 17:18.40. The secondary events all were of five miles, Gardner winning three and Maurie Rose of Indianapolis and Duke Nalon of Chicago the others.

Ted Horn, Los Angeles, fourth place winner in the Memorial day race in Indianapolis, failed to win, but wheeled his machine over the mile course in 38.70 seconds to win the time trial and set what was claimed to be a new A. A. A. mile record, lowering the time of 39.37 seconds established by Billy Winn.

TONY PENNA'S 212 WINS GOLF MEET IN KANSAS CITY

Dayton Star Cards 67 on Final Round.

Kansas City, Mo., June 5.—(AP)—Tony Penna of Dayton, O., blazed a six under par trail over the Hillcrest course in the final round of the 54 hole Kansas City open tournament this afternoon to finish with a 212 total and the $1,200 first prize share of the $5,000 purse.

Penna getting six birdies on the last round, put together 75, 70, and 67, and was three strokes ahead of Paul Runyan of White Plains, N. Y., and four better than Sam Snead, the slugging pro from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

The remainder of the classy field, including Johnny Revolta and Harry Cooper, both of Chicago, the early pace setters, was stretched out far behind. Revolta managed to save a tie with Frank Walsh of Morton Grove, Ill., for fourth place with a 217, but Cooper blew up, taking a 226.

Storm Cuts It Short.

The tournament, originally scheduled for 72 holes, was cut to 54 when a lightning bolt killed two spectators during Friday's play.

Cooper and Revolta carded 68s, five under par, to lead at the end of the first 18 holes yesterday, with Jimmy Demaret one stroke behind and a flock of other players making a plaything of par.

With the tee markers moved back, the pins on difficult spots on the greens, and a brisk wind sweeping the course, it was a different story in the second round this morning. Such shooters as Gene Sarazen, Cooper, and Horton Smith were in trouble frequently. Sarazen took an 81, Cooper a 79, Smith a 77.

Nelson Gives Up.

With the exception of Penna it was much the same story in the final round this afternoon. Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., who took an 81 in the second round, picked up after eight holes of the final round.

Demaret, who held a two stroke lead at the end of the second round with 142, got a 76 in the final round and ended in a tie for sixth place.

Penna, a protégé of Tommy Armour, putted for birdies all the way around this afternoon. He needed only 14 putts going out and 16 coming in. The other money winners:

Runyan, $750; Snead, $550; Walsh and Revolta, $400 each; Demaret and Willie Goggin, San Bruno, Cal., $285 each; Leland Gibson, Kansas City, $230; Harold McSpaden, Winchester, Mass., $190; John Bulla, Chicago, and Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, $155 each; Ray Mangrum, Dayton; Leo Mallory, Darien, Conn., and Warren Reipen, St. Joseph, Mo., $106.67 each; Frank Moore, Mamaroneck, N. 12 Motorcycles Pile Up in Race; One Driver Killed

Jerseyville, Ill., June 5.—(AP)—A race track crash involving twelve motorcycles killed George W. Domyan, 37 year old East St. Louis [Ill.] driver, and seriously injured Reuben Larsen of Rockford before 7,000 today. Domyan was leading the field in a five mile race when his machine skidded and fell. The others piled up against his motorcycle. Larsen suffered a fractured collar bone and broken ribs.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

WHEN the right hand of Henry Armstrong, which had pounded the welterweight crown off the head of Barney Ross, was raised by the referee in victory at Madison Square Garden bowl last Tuesday night, the action marked another step in the steady march of the colored race toward prominence in world athletics. In acquiring the 147 pound title Armstrong became a double champion [he already owned the featherweight crown] and, with Joe Louis, the heavyweight king, and John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight titleholder, formed a holding company which now has half of the world's professional boxing honors as assets.

In track and field colored stars have become increasingly prominent, reaching a peak in the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin, where Jesse Owens of Ohio State university carried off three titles—in the broad jump and 100 and 200 meter dashes. A representative, although far from complete, list of colored athletes who have gained success recently follows:

BOXING—Joe Louis, heavyweight champion; Henry Armstrong, welterweight and featherweight champion; John Henry Lewis, light heavyweight champion, and Panama Al Brown, recognized as bantamweight champion in Europe.

TRACK AND FIELD—Jesse Owens, Dave Albritton, and Melvin Walker of Ohio State; Ralph Metcalfe and Ed Burke, Marquette; Eddie Tolan and Bill Watson, University of Michigan; Gil Cruter, University of Colorado; Eulace Peacock, Temple U.; Tom Nelson, Fresno [Cal.] Teachers; Donald Dunn, Pittsburg [Kas.] Teachers; Joshua Williamson, Xavier U. [New Orleans]; Wilbur Miller, Compton [Cal.] Junior college; John Woodruff, University of Pittsburgh; James Herbert, New York U.; Jim Smith, Indiana university; Archie Williams, University of California; Woodrow Strode, U. C. L. A.; George Robertson, Drake U., and Mack Robinson, University of Oregon.

FOOTBALL—Jerome Holland, Cornell U.; Homer Harris and Oze Simmons, University of Iowa; Horace Bell, University of Minnesota; Frank Kelker, Western Reserve; Kenny Washington, U. C. L. A., and Bernard Jefferson and Don Hinton, Northwestern U.

HURLS FOURTEEN INNING NO HIT GAME; LOSES, 1-0

New Holstein, Wis., June 5.—(AP)—Robert Bruckner, one year out of high school, pitched a 14 inning no hit baseball game today and struck out nineteen men, but his Chilton, Wis., team lost to New Holstein, 1 to 0, in the Eastern Wisconsin Independent league.

The victorious pitcher was Billy Dumke, just returned from the University of Texas. A protégé of the Cincinnati Reds, Dumke struck out twenty-nine men and gave two hits.

The winning run was made on a walk, an error, and a squeeze play.

COLLEGE TRACK STARS MOVE ON MILWAUKEE NEXT

Central Meet Friday Will Attract Headliners.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Today the college track stars of the central states turn their attention to the Central Intercollegiate games Friday in Milwaukee. From this meet the outstanding athletes then will travel to Minneapolis to enter the National Collegiate meet June 17 and 18.

While the National Collegiate despitethe aloofness of eastern universities, continues to climax the college year, and it now appears that the Minneapolis games will be the most successful in the history of the competition, the contest between the Pacific coast conference and the Western conference in Dyche stadium on June 25 will hold far more interest for followers of track than any other event.

It's an Important Meet.

Started last year, when the Western conference stars met the athletes who had finished first, second, and third in the Pacific coast conference, the annual meet now holds promise of taking a special place in the development of the sport. Nothing similar ever has been tried before, and it cannot be duplicated, for the I. C. 4-A meet, which was held Saturday, is the only other gathering of notable stars in any number and the domination of this meet by the Pacific coast universities eliminates the east as a rival.

The meet will settle the natural rivalry between Big Ten schools and the western coast, and, since the Big Ten has this year four outstanding athletes who scarcely can be defeated, the decision should be closely fought.

To this meet Wisconsin will send its champion miler, Chuck Fenske, and its record breaking two miler, Walter Mehl. Michigan will send William Watson, winner of the shot put, discus throw, and broad jump, and Ohio State will be represented by Dave Albritton, who broke the Big Ten record two weeks ago in the high jump.

Thurber Can Jump, Too.

The Western conference should win the mile, two mile, shot put, and discus, with decision reserved in the broad jump and high jump. While Albritton cleared 6 feet 7¼ inches in the Big Ten meet, Delos Thurber of Southern California jumped 6 feet 6⅝ inches Saturday in New York to set a new I. C. 4-A mark. The far west apparently has no runner who can come close to Mehl's record breaking time of 9:10.4. Neither can any coast star equal Fenske's 4:10.9 mile and the Badger ace has done better. But the boys from the west will be most difficult to whip in the dashes, quarter mile, and hurdles.

The Central Intercollegiate meet Friday at Marquette university offers excellent competition as well as conditioning for the national collegiate and the interconference competition. Indiana university, defending champion, will not compete, as the Hoosiers have a dual meet the following day with Ohio State. The conflict resulted when the Central meet was set back one week.

Badgers Should Win Trophy.

Wisconsin, which finished second in the Big Ten games with thirty-seven points, probably will be the public choice to capture the Knute Rockne Memorial trophy in this thirteenth annual meet. Notre Dame is a likely runner-up, if not a champion, and Illinois, Iowa, and Chicago, of the conference, also will compete.

The University of Pittsburgh team, which finished fourth Saturday in the east, will threaten if only because of its great star, Johnny Woodruff, winner of the quarter mile and half mile. Michigan State, by virtue of its splendid hurdler, Harvey Woodstra, who took both the 120 yard high and 220 yard low hurdles in Randalls Island stadium Saturday, makes the Spartans an equal threat with Pitt to Wisconsin's bid for the championship.

Fenske, Mehle, Woodstra, and Woodruff are expected to establish new Central records.

Southern California and California, which competed in the east, will not enter at Marquette. The westerners will continue training in New York and then go to Minneapolis.

Maccabees Beat Kickers, 4-2, in Peel Cup Final

BY OFFSIDE.

The Maccabees defeated the Chicago Kickers, 4 to 2, yesterday in the finals for the Peel cup. The Kickers, first division leaders in the International league, started the scoring in the first two minutes when Eden, standing uncovered, beat Griffith from ten yards.

The Maccabees tied it up in the 35th minute, when Lillie was fouled and Gonsalves beat Liebich with the penalty kick. Wright put the Maccabees ahead in the last minute of the first period.

The Kickers tied the score again early in the second period, Jozart slipping past Waldron to beat Goalie Griffith.

Ogilvie scored on a free kick 25 minutes later and Waldron made it 4 to 2 in the last two minutes. The Lineup:

It's Players Who Pay on Nags' Off Day

BY FRENCH LANE.

It was the horse players—not the horses — who were suffering from bowed tendons over the week-end.

Last night they were still wondering what had happened to them and to the favorites in Saturday's races, the one day each week ordinarily set aside for the best horses in training. The favorites simply were lost all up and down the line and with them disappeared the bankrolls of the players.

Four Favorites Win in 89 Races.

Five major tracks were operating during the day. They were Lincoln Fields in Chicago, Belmont Park 'n New York, Suffolk Downs in Boston, Fair Grounds in Detroit, and Fairmount Park near St. Louis.

Thirty-nine races—six of them stake events—were decided at these five tracks. Exactly four of those thirty-nine races were won by favorites. Not one of the six stake races went to the horse mustering the most backing.

The steed that burned up most of the favorite players' money was Dauber. He touched off a huge bonfire of greenbacks in New York when he was beaten at odds of 1 to 3 in the Belmont stakes.

Oddesa Beulah Beaten.

Another roaring blaze was set off in Detroit when Oddesa Beulah went down to defeat after she had been made the 7 to 10 favorite in the St. Clair stakes for 2 year olds.

In Chicago clouds of smoke hung over Lincoln Fields all afternoon. There were two particularly large conflagrations, one made by the losing tickets on the 9 to 10 favorite, Doubt Not, in a 2 year old race, and the other by the humiliating defeat of the 7 to 5 favorite, Preëminent, in the Steger handicap.

The chief money destroyers at Suffolk Downs and Fairmount Park were Gold Thorn and Little Nymph. Both were beaten at odds of 7 to 5.

Cupboard Is Bare at Suffolk.

A meager helping of one winning favorite each was served to the faithful players of figure horses at Lincoln Fields, Belmont Park, Fairmount, and Detroit. The cupboard was completely bare at Suffolk Downs.

The renewal of the $5,000 Joliet stakes for 2 year olds which is to be Saturday's headliner at Lincoln Fields promises to furnish a close finish. Beau James from Warren Wright's Calumet farm stable, winner of the St. Clair stakes in Detroit last Saturday; Royal Pam, victor in the recent Bashford Manor stakes in Kentucky; Thomas D. Taggart's Yale o' Nine, Yellow Cap, another Kentucky juvenile star, and one or two of Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' high priced 2 year olds already are listed among the starters.

Petroskey and Celebron Top Marigold Card

Tonight's boxing card in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, is featured by four bouts of eight rounds involving middleweights, welterweights, and junior welterweights.

The middleweight contestants will be Billy Celebron of Rockford and Pete Petroskey, Muskegon, Mich.; the welterweights, Verne Patterson, last year's Golden Gloves champion, and Tony Petroskey, brother of Pete, and the junior welters, Tommy Howell, Danville, Ill., and Everett Simington, Poplar Bluff, Mo., and Harvey Woods, St. Paul, and Johnny Helstrom, Rogers Park.

All eight principals are aggressive. In addition Celebron, Tony Petroskey and Patterson are exceptionally hard hitters. Thus, one or two of the matches may end in a knockout.

Tony will be trying for his fourth victory of the year in Marigold. Helstrom, who has a string of victories to his credit, will be facing his biggest test in Woods.

Jim McMillen and Bruno Black, Miami, Fla., heavyweight wrestlers, will be principals in the windup bout on tonight's mat program in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue. In the secondary feature King Kong clashes with Gene Bauman, Jerry Meeker faces Roy Rickenbacher, Fritz Schnable encounters Ken Fenlon, and Kid Chapman opposes Jim Landes. . . . Co-Manager Art Winch will supervise Davey Day's workout this afternoon in Trafton's gymnasium for a ten round bout with Nick Camarata, New Orleans, La., lightweight, in the Marigold arena next Monday. . . . Earl Gibson, Gary lightweight, who has placed himself under the tutelage of Sammy Mandell, lightweight titleholder from 1926 to 1930, will meet Johnny Pleasant, Savoy Athletic club, in an amateur contest this evening in Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard.

After their wrestling show, headed by Danno O'Mahoney and Dick Stahl in Marigold gardens Friday, Co-Promoters Joe Coffey and Paul Paloski will offer additional cards there June 17 and 24. . . . King Kong will make his second appearance of the week against Jack Brown in Rainbo Fronton Wednesday. . . . Pete Lello, 1936 Golden Gloves lightweight ruler, has received an offer to box Tony Chavez in Hollywood, Cal., this month. . . . Five bouts will support the Jimmy Adamick-Jack Trammell ten round main event in Mills stadium Wednesday. Two of these match Hank Bath with Tom Kenneally and Lem Franklin with Sandy McDonald. Each is booked for six rounds. F. M.

FAIR GROUNDS DRIVERS TO TUNE UP ON THURSDAY

Drivers from all over the United States will start warming up their motors Thursday for the inaugural race meet of the season next Sunday on the Fair Grounds speedway, North avenue and River road.

Jimmy Snyder of Chicago probably will be the first star to appear at the track. He is working on his car to have it in shape for the race. His forthcoming duel with Ronnie Householder, who ran almost hub-to-hub with him in the Indianapolis race for nearly 200 miles, is expected to be a stirring sport event.

Try Dells Area, Anglers; You'll Get Some Strings

BY BOB BECKER.

One wall-eyed pike weighing 9¾ pounds, another running the scales to 5½ pounds, a northern pike of the same weight and a limit of crappies make up a string of fish that ought to satisfy any rod and reel enthusiast.

E. C. Gallion of Chicago put these fish on his stringer when he fished the Wisconsin river flowage recently —a spot that we recently recommended to Illinois anglers who are looking for good fishing fairly near the city. The Wisconsin river flowage is the backwater of that river formed by a dam at Sauk City. A big body of water reaching back among the hills and marshes, it has been producing some nice strings of wall-eyes and panfish.

Fishermen who have been passing up this body of water and the fishing spots which are close to it in the Dells region are missing something. The old Wisconsin still has a pretty good stock of fish in it and the same holds true for some of its tributaries.

Although we have fished many a spot in the Lake of the Woods country, and even went into a number of unnamed and unfished lakes near Kenora [reached by a motorized railroad handcar and then portages], there is, east of the Lake of the Woods, a big and almost unknown area of lakes that apparently is just coming into its own.

This section looks to us like a good bet to the muskie fisherman who wants 'em weighing 40 pounds and up. The region we have in mind has Eagle lake in the center of it and is south and west of the little town of Dryden, reached by the Canadian Pacific and a fairly new motor highway. Eagle lake wasn't accessible until 1936. Top fish there last year weighed 46¾ pounds.

C. Y. O. PITCHER TURNS IN NO HIT GAME; WINS, 3 TO 1

GIANTS DROP TO 2D PLACE; REDS WIN IN 8TH, 4-1

Vander Meer Holds Foes to Three Hits.

Cincinnati, O., June 5.—(AP)—Rookie Johnny Vander Meer shot his fireball at the jittery Giants today and toppled the leaders into second place as the Cincinnati Reds won their second straight of the series, 4 to 1.

Vander Meer had his fast one working, and set the Giants down with three hits. He struck out six men and the enemy went hitless from the second to the ninth inning.

The Giants marked up their run in the first inning as Ott doubled to the center field wall to score Moore, who beat out an infield hit.

The Reds tied it up in the third and the game settled down to a pitcher's battle between Vander Meer and Clydell Castleman. Kampouris opened the eighth by drawing a walk and Gamble beat out a sacrifice down the third base line. McCormick, hitting his 16th double of the season, scored both men with a line drive to the score board. Castleman purposely passed Lombardi, and Craft lined out a single, bringing home McCormick. Cliff Melton came to the mound to halt the rally and struck out the only Red of the game. Score:

The first game was packed with thrills and Pepper Martin rose up in all his glory to clinch the decision. Martin was sent in as a pinch hitter with two on and doubled to tie the score at 5 to 5, and on Elbie Fletcher's wild relay to the plate Martin came in head first with the winning run. Scores:

DODGERS, 10; PIRATES, 5.

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers collected 15 hits today, seven of them accounting for six runs in the sixth inning, to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10 to 5.

Pitcher Russ Bauers was steaming along apparently safely on a 5 to 2 lead at the start of the sixth when the Brooklyn storm struck with 11 batters going to the plate against Bauers and Joe Bowman and Ed Brandt, who worked in relief. Although he pitched only one-third of an inning, facing four batters, Bowman was given the loss. Score:

SECOND GAME

The Athletics crossed up the White Sox in the second game by scoring first. Moses opened the offensive in the first inning with a single to center and scored on Siebert's fifth straight hit of the afternoon, a double to left center. Werber walked, but was caught snoozing when Jackie Hayes sneaked behind him and took a snap throw from Sewell. Frank Hayes struck out, and Johnson was out on a tap in front of the plate.

The Sox's four run splurge in the third inning of the first game was such a success that the Sox decided to duplicate it in the third inning of the second. This is the way they did it: Berger opened with a single to right. Johnson got his hands on Owen's drive to left center, but was handcuffed and dropped the ball, being charged with an error on a stern ruling. Berger stopped at third and Owen on second on the play. Steinbacher flied to Chapman, Berger scoring, and Owen got home on Kreevich's infield out. Radcliff singled to right, after which Walker drove his fifth homer into the upper deck of the left field stands, scoring behind Radcliff. Jackie Hayes popped to Lodigiani.

Siebert Rolls Merrily On.

Siebert opened the sixth with his sixth hit of the afternoon and Werber walked. Frank Hayes hit into a double play, Siebert stopping at third. Berger fumbled Johnson's grounder, the first Chicago error of the afternoon, Siebert scoring.

The home seventh was uneventful until Lodigiani and Ambler had supplied easy outs. Then Nelson walked and stopped at second on Moses' single to center. Siebert then knocked out his seventh hit, this time a triple to right, which scored Nelson and Mose with the tying runs. Siebert could have continued home when the relay went past Sewell to the boxes, but he fell over third base. He didn't have to remain on third long, however, for Werber lined a single to left, scoring him. Rigney replaced Whitehead and on the fourth pitch to Frank Hayes, Werber stole second. F. Hayes then struck out.

Macks Start Blasting.

After the Sox had gone out in order in the eighth, Johnson led off in the home half with his tenth homer of the year and his third of the series. Not to be outdone, Chapman also biffed a homer, his third of the year. Lodigiani was called out on strikes and Ambler lined to Steinbacher. Nelson struck out.

Jack Hayes opened the ninth with a single to center and Rosenthal, batting for Sewell, walked. Thompson batted for Rigney and fanned. Berger flied to Chapman, but Owen tripled to right center, scoring Jack Hayes and Rosenthal. With the potential tying run on third Steinbacher struck out.

Cubs Defeat Phils, 7-1; Take League Lead

both Demaree and O'Dea wound up on third, the latter being tagged by Atwood. Collins walked, filling the bases, but Jurges bounced to Mulcahy for a double play.

After being held hitless for three innings the Phils unleashed a pair of singles in the fourth, all for naught. Stein led off with a fly to Marty and Mueller singled to right. Martin punched a single through short on a hit and run maneuver, Mueller going to third. Klein grounded to Collins, who threw to the plate to head off Mueller. The latter turned around and beat it back toward third, but O'Dea caught up with him before he reached the base. Stainback popped to Herman.

Stainback Butts in Again.

The Cubs' profitable venture in the fourth started with Demaree's single to center. He stole second while O'Dea was striking out. Marty beat out a slow roller to short, Demaree taking third. After pitching two wide ones to Collins, Mulcahy decided to make it an intentional pass, which filled the bases. Demaree scored on Jurges' infield out. Carleton looped a double over third, Marty and Collins counting. Then Hack uncorked what should have been a hit, but Stainback, charging toward center with his glove hand extended, made the catch.

Carleton invited the Phils to start something in the fifth, but they spurned the bid. He walked Young and Whitney, the first two batters. Atwood then fanned and both Mulcahy and Stein popped to Jurges. The Cubs also had a chance to produce in their half. Stein made a low throw on Herman, who led off. Galan, who tried to sacrifice but forced Herman instead, took second on a passed ball. No assistance was forthcoming from Demaree or O'Dea, however.

Phils Finally Get One.

The sixth, in which the Phils had the benefit of four hits and an error but scored only one run, opened with Mueller's single past Hack. Martin popped to Jurges. Klein then singled to right, Mueller taking third. Hack fumbled Demaree's throw and Klein scooted down to second. Stainback beat out a hit to Jurges and Mueller scored. Young flied to Marty. Jurges made a bare handed stop back on the grass of Whitney's hit and thus held Klein at third. Carleton then fanned Atwood for the second time.

Carleton opened the seventh with a single to right and it wasn't long before Mulcahy took the long walk. Hack drew free passage, Herman sacrificed, and Galan was presented with an intentional pass. A pitched ball plunked Demaree in the ribs, forcing in Carleton. A moment later O'Dea whacked a double to right center, sending Hack, Galan, and Demaree home and Mulcahy into exile. Passeau came forth and took care of Marty and Collins.

INDIANS SCORE IN 10TH TO BEAT WASHINGTON, 5-4

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—Relief Pitcher Willis Hudlin drove out a looping double in the tenth inning today to give the Cleveland Indians their second victory in two days over Washington. The score was 5 to 4.

BLUES' MANAGER HAS A RIGHT TO SING THE BLUES

Toledo, O., June 5.—(AP)—Step aside there, wailers, and make room for Manager Bill Meyer of the Kansas City Blues. Bawling Bill has a right to sing the blues. Here's what happened to him in the last 24 hours:

A taxicab, rushing players to the train, was pinched for speeding.

There was no time for supper; the players ordered sandwiches.

Seven players, including both catchers, became ill of ptomaine poisoning.

The train hit a truck and trailer.

None of the players got any sleep.

They lost a double-header to the Mudhens.

Epperly Faces Phils Today in Series Finale

Albert Paul Epperty beat the Phils for the Cubs here a month ago when he made his first major league start and today will be given a chance to repeat the dose in the final game of the series. The Moline rookie will draw Bucky Walters for an opponent.

Gabby Hartnett's left wrist, which was dented by a pitched ball in Saturday's game, was sore and swollen yesterday. Because Gabby couldn't resist using the wrist, Dr. John F. Davis, club physician, encased it in a brace. Gabby expects to be ready for the opener of the series with the Giants tomorrow, but might have to wait an extra day.

Diz Dean was back on the mound yesterday during batting practice. He pitched to two rounds of hitters and for the umpteenth time repeated that his $185,000 arm felt perfect.

Larry French spurned a $15 profit on the baby bear he purchased from a fan last week. He passed up $25 bids and sold it to Rip Collins for ten bucks. The animal will be shipped to the Collins estate at Rochester, N. Y.

The Cubs' game of July 26 at Brooklyn will be played at night under the glare of the Dodgers' new electric light plant now being installed. So that the boys will be able to sleep late the next day, the game of July 27 has been set back as part of a double-header on Sept. 18.

NORTH CENTRAL REFUTES CHURCH COLLEGE CRITICS

Activities Made Part of Educational Scheme.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Naperville, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—North Central college, which was started in 1861 as a training school for leaders of the Evangelical church, and which has developed into one of the most vigorous of the smaller liberal arts colleges of this section, with a physical plant valued at $2,240,000, a campus of fifty-three acres, and an alumni body of 2,028, appears to be a definite answer to those who for 40 years have been prophesying the doom of the church-related small college.

President Rall.

That a definite challenge to such institutions remains, however, and can only be met by an increase of church support and private philanthropy, is stated by President Edward Everett Rall. In his recent report to the trustees he pictures sweeping across the educational thought of the nation three great challenges to the four year liberal arts colleges and especially to those affiliated with the Christian church.

Education Is Broadened.

The first of these is the junior college movement, reinforced by the reorganization so vigorously promoted by President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago. Dr. Rall has met this with a program which vocationalizes the older liberal studies, the old humanistic disciplines, at the same time infusing a liberal, American, and humanistic touch to the newer vocational studies. He has built campus activities into an integral part of the educational scheme, and in this combination sees a need of a lengthened, broadened period of general education rather than a shortening and restriction to medieval methods.

The second challenge comes from the growth of the state universities and the tendency to transform teachers' colleges into liberal arts colleges. This means low fees and mass methods of education. These are met by individual attention, study of differences, and campus life attractions.

A third condition Dr. Rall finds now coming to the front is the tendency to increase the amount of federal grants for higher education and to restrict these to the publicly controled institutions. He mentions the recent report of President Roosevelt's advisory committee on education, which suggests federal subsidies of $150,000,000 a year for education, with the allocation of a very small amount to private institutions.

Cites Century of Conflict.

"The American principles of the separation of church and state and of the independence of the church and of its educational institutions from complete domination by the state have been established after a century of conflict," Dr. Rall says, "and should remain as essential elements in the American system of education. This means that there must be no state subsidies for church schools, for that would inevitably lead to state control of church schools, or church control of state schools.

"All of this places a great burden upon the church which elects to establish and maintain educational institutions. Church support and private philanthropy must more and more realize the responsibility for maintaining church institutions upon such a level of efficiency that they may educate the youth entrusted to them as adequately and thoroughly as do the state institutions. It is my firm conviction that if such support is forthcoming the church college can do an even better job than the state institution and as a result never will lack for youth to knock at its doors.

Must Be True to Mission.

"But the church college must not only have adequate financial support. It must remain true to its high mission of furnishing a truly liberal education, with broad moral and spiritual objectives stressed equally with the academic and the vocational; and to achieve this great end it must base its teachings on, and must exemplify in its personnel and its life the principles of our Christian faith and the teachings of its divine Founder."

North Central's present enrollment of 570 represents 21 states, Canada, and Japan. Of these 299 from Evangelical church homes. Employment or aid has been given to 336. Vocational preferences show an increasing trend toward engineering and research. Degrees are offered in the arts and sciences, commerce, preengineering, physical education, and home economics. There is a strong special school of music.

Campus life activities are restrained by the point system. There is a pretheological course, a pre-law course, and courses for teachers and Christian workers. The faculty numbers forty-two. A $350,000 gymnasium and fieldhouse is one of the attractions.

Two Incidents Show Vitality.

The vitality of such an institution and how the sparks fly from it may be illustrated by two incidents. In Cedar Falls, Ia., in pioneer days, lived a German immigrant mother, Mrs. Barbara Pfeiffer, who came into the Evangelical faith and who formed her life on the principle that "where God's spirit dwells, freedom dwells also." Two of her ten children, Henry and G. A. Pfeiffer, became wealthy New York business men, guided by their mother's faith. The results on the North Central campus today are the Barbara Pfeiffer memorial hall, a chapel and music building costing $230,000, gifts to the Merner gymnasium and fieldhouse of $225,000 and other gifts from this family amounting in all to $700,000.

It happened that Dr. Rall's father, a minister, was Mrs. Pfeiffer's pastor and Dr. Rall as a boy went to Sunday school under Mrs. Pfeiffer.

Talk Fires Breasted's Ambition.

Fifty or more years ago a poor boy came over from Downer's Grove one day to hear the late Dr. Henry Haesler Rassweiler, professor of natural sciences and philosophy at North Central, talk on his favorite subjects. He was fired by this contact and said:

"I am going to be a scholar."

This boy was the late James Henry Breasted, who became one of the world's great interpreters of ancient civilization and head of the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago. He was a graduate of the class of 1890 at North Central.

Another famous alumnus was the late Dr. Albert Goldspohn, professor of diseases of women and abdominal surgery at the Chicago Post-Graduate medical school, fellow of the American college of surgeons, who gave Goldspohn science hall to the college.

North Central now plans for its diamond jubilee. A $50,000 fund is being raised and a campaign started for men's dormitories, an enlarged library, and a museum and art building, as well as for increased endowment, scholarship and loan funds.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 5. — [Special.]—Walter E. Disney, creator of Mickey Mouse and other cartoon cinemas, was awarded an honorary doctor of science degree by the University of Southern California in the 55th commencement exercises, held in Los Angeles Memorial coliseum. President Rufus B. von Kleinsmid conferred the honor "in recognition of distinguished achievements in cinematography."

COL. LATROBE TO QUIT CAVALRY AFTER 30 YEARS

Washington, D. C., June 5.—[Special.]—After more than thirty years in the U. S. cavalry, Col. Osmun Latrobe is retiring. The order has been signed by President Roosevelt. Col. Latrobe commanded the guard for President Coolidge when he visited the Black Hills in South Dakota in 1927. His ability as a yarn spinner amused the taciturn President, who had the cavalryman transferred to the White House as his military aid.

ARCHITECT WILL TESTIFY TODAY AT CRABB TRIAL

Pekin, Ill., June 5.—[Special.]—Resumption tomorrow morning of the trial of James W. Crabb, accused of manslaughter in the slaying of his wife, Betty, last March 1, will start the fourth week of the hearing. W. J. Reardon, counsel for the defendant, who is the son of Willis W. Crabb, Delavan banker, expects to complete his case by Thursday night, and it is believed the jury will begin deliberation by Saturday.

Most of tomorrow will be required, Reardon said, for the testimony of Catherine Crabb, stepmother of the defendant, who was present at the time of the shooting. Crabb's father and his mother have testified.

George Wearda, an architect, will be the first defense witness today. He will describe the layout of the second floor of the Crabb home, in which the tragedy occurred and where James and his wife of five weeks lived with his father.

EGYPTIANS DISCOVER STONE TABLE USED IN EMBALMING MUMMIES

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

CAIRO, Egypt, June 5.—The first example of one of the tables on which mummies were embalmed has been brought to the Egyptian museum from El Quarna [Thebes], in Upper Egypt.

This unique limestone object measures more than 8½ feet in length by 40 inches in width and resembles the traditional form of bed on which mummies were exhibited at funerals. At the corners, in relief, are carved the legs and feet of lions and at the head are figures that once were lions' heads.

A raised border surrounds the bed proper like a frame. From the head end downward the slab becomes more concave until below the feet there is a sufficient depth for several quarts of liquid. This liquid could be retained or be allowed to run out through a small hole. The bed is a little less than a foot high, from which it can be assumed the early Egyptian embalmers performed their work in a squatting position.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

FIX RECORD LOW RATE ON BILLION U. S. REFUNDING

Issues Bear 2¾ and 1⅛ Per Cent.

Washington, D. C., June 5.—(AP)—The treasury offered today to exchange new securities bearing record low interest rates for $1,214,000,000 of treasury notes maturing in June and September.

At a press conference Secretary Morgenthau announced terms of the new securities, which were offered in exchange for $618,056,800 of treasury 2⅞ per cent notes maturing June 15 and $596,416,100 of 2½ per cent notes maturing Sept. 15.

To holders of the maturing notes the treasury offered 2¾ per cent 20-25 year bonds or five year 1⅛ per cent notes. The exchanges will be made unit for unit in denominations of $50 to $100,000.

Previous Low Rate 2¾ Per Cent.

The coupon rate of 2¾ per cent is the lowest on record for any bond of comparable maturity, the secretary said. The previous low rate was 2¾ per cent on 20-25 year bonds dated March 15, 1935.

The 1⅛ per cent rate on the notes also is a new low. The lowest rate on notes presently outstanding is 1¼ per cent on the issue dated Dec. 15, 1936.

Holders of any maturing notes who do not elect to exchange them for the new issues will be paid in cash when the notes mature.

"Clearing Deck" for Spending.

The secretary also announced that special treasury bills totaling $250,306,000, which mature immediately after June 15, and about $190,000,000 interest on the public debt, due June 15, would be paid from the treasury's cash balance.

At a press conference last week Morgenthau announced the refinancing was being undertaken in order "to clear the decks" for possible large cash borrowings in September.

He explained new cash might be borrowed in September if the government's spending program necessitated it.

The treasury bills of $250,306,000, which will mature June 16, 17, and 18, will be redeemed in cash out of income tax receipts.

Offer $475,000 of Bonds of Canton, Ill., Today

Public offering of a new $475,000 issue of 3½ per cent water and sewer revenue bonds of the city of Canton, Ill., will be made today by Doyle, O'Connor & Co., Chicago. The bonds are dated May 1, 1938, and will mature from 1941 to 1968. They are priced to yield from 1.75 per cent to 3.30 per cent. Funds for payment of principal and interest are to be derived from revenues of the water and sewerage systems of the city.

Foreign Dollar Bond Defaults Show Increase

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—Approximately 39.7 per cent, or $2,203,819,360, of the $5,557,600,752 of foreign dollar bonds outstanding at the end of last year were in default, according to the fourth annual report of the Foreign Bond Holders Protective Council, Inc., made public today.

Latin America, with 85.1 per cent of its dollar obligations in default, leads the list.

A comparison with similar statistics at the close of 1936 indicates that the foreign bond situation, considered broadly, became worse rather than better in 1937. Of the $5,375,000,000 outstanding at the end of 1936, 38.5 per cent, or $2,070,673,769, were in default. Latin American loans then also led, with 75.8 per cent in default.

More Issues Included.

Sixty-seven more issues are covered in the council's 1937 report, which includes a total of 589. Of these, 268, or 45.5 per cent, are in default. This increase over the 1936 report is owing to the inclusion of railway bonds expropriated by the Mexican government in April, 1937, and additional Canadian provincial and municipal issues.

Aside from the voluminous statistical data presented, the council's 790 page report for 1937 reveals for the first time important changes in the organization of the council along with the lines recommended by the Securities and Exchange commission in its report to congress in May, 1937.

In addition to publication of its amended by-laws and a letter of approval of the change made from William O. Douglas, chairman of the SEC, the report presents for the first time an audited financial statement of the council covering its operations for 1937.

15 Make Full Service.

Of the forty-two countries having dollar bonds outstanding, only fifteen are making full service as to both interest and sinking fund payments, and twenty-seven are in default, according to the report. Two of those in default, Argentina and Canada, are making full service on their national obligations, but each has defaulted provincial and municipal bonds.

Group.	Amount outstanding.	Amount in default.	Pct. in default.
Lat. Am.	$1,593,575,938	$1,356,695,933	85.1
Europe..	1,022,068,950	754,051,235	40.5
Far east & Af'ca	522,910,013	6,637,000	1.3
Canada .	1,819,045,851	86,435,192	4.8

As to repatriations, the council again stresses in its report the practice of certain foreign governments of using for such purposes funds which should go to bondholders for interest on their obligations. The council cites instances where debtor nations have repatriated at default prices approximately one-third of their outstanding debt.

Brillo Manufacturing.

Investors' Guide: Please tell me about the Brillo Manufacturing company. I see it had a fairly good first quarter this year.—R. J. V.

Answer: The Brillo Manufacturing Co., Inc., manufactures about 60 per cent of the steel wool made in the United States. The company's product best known to housewives is a package cleaner item sold under the trade name "Brillo." This item consists of pads of metal fiber and a cake of Brillo soap. It is used for cleaning aluminum and other utensils and has industrial as well as household uses.

Other items sold include "Brillo" silver polish and "Supreme" steel wool products used for various industrial and commercial purposes. The company also makes resilient pressing pads used in tailoring establishments and laundries. "Orbo Household Laundry Bluing" is another product.

Brillo products are distributed in all parts of the United States and in forty-eight foreign countries.

Net income in the first quarter of this year was $60,162, or 33 cents a common share, compared with $62,339, or 34 cents a share, in the corresponding 1937 period. Net income for all of 1937 was $198,186, or $1.04 a common share, compared with $204,841, or $1.07 a common share, in 1936; $139,452, or 55 cents a common share, in 1935; $151,981, or 62 cents a common share, in 1934; $156,945, or 65 cents a common share, in 1933; $123,736, or 46 cents a common share, in 1932, and $268,372, or $1.41 a common share, in 1929.

The company had 23,751 shares of no par class A participating preferred stock and 145,310 shares of no par common stock outstanding at the end of 1937. The class A stock pays $2 a year and the common 80 cents. The class A shares participate equally with the common up to and including $1.50 a share additional after both classes of stock have been paid $2 in any year.

Total assets were $1,736,497 at the end of 1937. Current assets were $527,983 and current liabilities were $128,844. Despite the good earnings record of the company and its predominance in its field, both the preferred and common must be regarded as more of a speculation than an investment pending clarification of the general industrial outlook.

DEALERS ASK CHANGE IN OVER-COUNTER BILL; DENY AN AGREEMENT

Over-the-counter security dealers, having had an opportunity to study the Maloney bill to regulate their business, "have become increasingly concerned about the unfavorable results that would occur if certain sections of the measure were not amended," Francis E. Frothingham, president of the Investment Bankers Association of America, said yesterday.

Frothingham, speaking for the association, made the statement in telegrams sent to members of the house interstate and foreign commerce committee, to Senator Maloney [D., Conn.], Senator Wagner [D., N. Y.], and George C. Mathews, member of the securities and exchange commission. The telegrams denied reports that the association had indicated to the SEC willingness to launch a national organization of over-counter dealers under the Maloney bill.

Frothingham warned that if not amended the bill "would seriously curtail the activities of the capital markets.

Winter Wheat Yields Cut by Heavy Rains

Prospects of the United States raising a winter wheat crop much in excess of 800,000,000 bushels have diminished with excessive rains in parts of the southwest which caught the plant in blossom over parts of Kansas and Oklahoma, and resulted in poor pollenization.

Unfavorable crop comments from the southwest have increased as threshing returns showed yields of winter wheat in parts of Texas and Oklahoma were less than anticipated. The combination of drouth early in the season, frosts in April and early May, an attack of black rust in its third or damaging stage, and poor pollenization has cut estimated yields in the southwestern states. A bumper crop for the country as a whole, however, is now fairly certain.

Recall 1919 Situation.

Weather conditions similar to this year occurred in 1919. Excessive rains that year gave the winter wheat crop an excellent appearance and a record harvest was predicted. Heavy rains, however, caught a large part of the crop in bloom, resulting in the heads' failing to fill properly.

Despite the damage, there will be sufficient winter wheat this year for all domestic requirements and also a large surplus for export.

The basis for government loans to wheat farmers is expected to be announced around June 15, and what will be loaned per bushel and the terms are expected by brokers to be an important market influence.

Steel Industry Lacks Signs of Nearby Upturn

No signs of nearby improvements in steel production and buying are evident, according to the current weekly review of the industry by the magazine Steel. The trade journal estimated ingot production last week at 25.5 per cent of capacity, a decline of 3 points from the preceding week, which was largely the result of lower operating schedules in the Chicago and Pittsburgh areas.

"All indications in the steel industry point to continued dullness," the magazine said, "and no factors have appeared to furnish a basis for expectation of improvement.

Buy for Immediate Needs.

"Consumers consistently refrain from making commitments beyond immediate needs, and the light buying now being done is patently for completing broken assortments."

The ingot production rate in the Chicago district last week fell 6.5 points to 22.5 per cent of theoretical capacity, and the Pittsburgh rate dropped 4 points to 18 per cent. Eastern Pennsylvania was a point lower at 26 per cent; Wheeling 3 lower at 38, New England off 3 to 27, Cincinnati 6 points to 22, and Youngstown 6 points to 21 per cent. St. Louis operations increased 6 points to 39.3 per cent and Cleveland 5 points to 31. Buffalo, Birmingham, and Detroit were unchanged at 21, 69, and 18 per cent, respectively.

More Freight Cars Bought.

A slight increase was noted in railroad buying, purchases of freight cars totaling 6,014 in May, the largest month's business since April, 1937.

Steel scrap prices broke sharply last week, averaging about 50 cents lower in all the principal markets. Steel's scrap composite price fell 58 cents to $10.75 a ton, after having held fairly steady during the last month, which led to the belief that scrap prices had at last found bottom.

BUSINESS UPTURN IN AUTUMN SEEN BY W. S. KNUDSEN

A sharp upturn in business conditions by early fall was predicted yesterday by William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors corporation. He stopped briefly in Chicago on his way from Valley, Neb., to his home in Detroit, Mich.

"I sincerely believe that there will be a very definite improvement in all types of industry, business, and professions," he said. "The farming and crop situation looks particularly bright.

The Knudsen party included Mrs. Knudsen, J. J. McIntyre, Cleveland manufacturer, and Mrs. McIntyre, and E. F. Johnson, Detroit General Motors official. They went to Nebraska for the marriage of the latter's stepson.

3,000 MERCHANTS TO PARTICIPATE IN COAL MEETING

More than 3,000 coal merchants from all parts of the country are expected to participate in the convention and exposition of the American Retail Coal association this week at the Hotel Sherman, George I. Methe, president of the association, said.

The exposition will begin today and continue through Saturday. The convention will begin Tuesday and will conclude Thursday evening.

New heat regulating machines and demonstrations of the methods of preparing coal and coke for consumption will be emphasized at the exposition.

Rainy Weather Handicaps Chicago Trade Last Week

The several days of rain last week further depressed Chicago retail business, the Chicago Association of Commerce reported yesterday. Wholesale business also was still lagging far behind that of the same period of last year, and the trend of employment continued downward, with white-collar classes the hardest hit, the report said.

MARKETS WORRY OVER NEW CUT IN DOLLAR'S VALUE

Fear Move as Result of Depression.

New York, June 5.—[Special.]—Continuance of the depression, accompanied by a drastic fall in commodity prices, has given rise in financial markets here and abroad in the last week to active conjecture over the possibility that the government may once more resort to dollar devaluation in an effort to check deflation.

Although there appeared last week to be no better foundation for the new rumors of an impending further cut in the dollar's gold value than had existed on previous occasions, the markets have learned in recent years not to dismiss as impossible any monetary action which governments have at their disposal.

President's Powers Extended.

Under the gold reserve act of Jan. 30, 1934, as amended, the President has the authority to change the weight of the dollar at any time within limits equal to 50 and 60 per cent of its former gold content. This authority, originally granted for a period of two years following the passage of the act, was extended for one additional year by presidential proclamation authorized under the act and was still further extended to June 30, 1939, by an act of congress approved Jan. 23, 1937.

The current gold value of the dollar, which is equal to 59.06 per cent of its old value, was fixed by the President on Jan. 31, 1934. Until the end of next June he still can cut the dollar by roughly one-sixth to a gold content equal to one-half of the old statutory value.

Such a reduction would have the effect of lifting the official price of gold from $35 an ounce to about $41.34. It would accordingly give the government a new gold "profit" equal to $6.34 an ounce.

Gold Stocks Would Soar.

The existing monetary gold stocks, which on June 1 amounted to $12,918,000,000, or a total of about 369,000,000 ounces of the metal, would be lifted, should the dollar be devalued the full amount permitted, to about $15,257,500,000. This would net the treasury a gold "profit" of about $2,339,500,000, compared with a gold "profit" of about $2,800,000,000 realized from the devaluation of 1934.

It was the prevailing view in financial circles that some revival of inflation fears might be expected to meet a new devaluation of the dollar, but that the uncertainties thus added to the existing situation would be more likely to hamper than to aid recovery. The theory that a rise in the value of gold results in a corresponding rise in commodity prices, which was the basis of the deliberate depreciation of the dollar in 1933, is now generally held in discredit.
